TRIBUNE GETS JAPS' DEMANDS CHITA SCORNE

8 Secret Articles Cause
Split at Dairen.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
TOKIO, Dec. 25.—The Tribune has obtained a copy of the text of the treaty over which the Dairen conference was deadlocked owing to the decision of the Far Eastern republic to refuse absolutely the first eight articles of the demands made by Japan.

1. The Far Eastern republic shall make public declaration that it will adhere to non-communist principles.
2. The Far Eastern republic shall recognize the agreements concluded by Japan with the former Russian government.
3. It shall recognize the Japanese rights as to navigation on the Amur river to the same extent as is done in China.
4. The Far Eastern republic shall conclude a provisional agreement in regard to fishing to remain in force until the Russo-Japanese fisheries agreement is revised.
5. It shall allow official Japanese representatives to reside at Chita, Blagovestchensk, Vladivostok, Habarovsk, Nikolayevsk, and other important centers.
6. The Far Eastern republic shall make efforts for a peaceful settlement with the Merkuloff government and not plunge the Maritime province again into disorder.
7. It shall guarantee absolutely the safety of lives and property of all foreign residents.
8. It shall dismantle the fortifications at Vladivostok and shall open it as a free port.

Other Provisions Summarized.
The remaining nine articles cover the leasing of land to foreigners for a thirty-six year period; the opening of mines to investment and operation by foreigners and permission for the hiring of non-Russian labor to work them; permission for foreigners to have unrestricted operation of the forestry and communication thereto; individual trading and definite recognition of foreign property rights without indiscriminate requisitions; revision of the customs and tariff after an investigation by a special joint committee; the granting of rights on the standard established by the soviet of Russia; absolutely to refrain from all propaganda injurious to Japanese security; a military agreement for evacuation to follow a commercial agreement, this agreement to be prepared in the Russian and Japanese languages.

Joker in Article II.
The joker lies in article II for this includes certain unspecified secret agreements with the Kerensky, Kolchak and Merkuloff governments which it is believed give Japan certain preferential rights in the maritime province.

TOO MUCH FOR CHITA

[Copyright: 1921: By The Chicago Tribune.]
1.—The text of the treaty between the Siberian Far Eastern Republic and Japan, which the Siberians refused to sign, has been made public. The Japs demanded rights on the Amur river.

2.—Japan demanded that the forts of Vladivostok be dismantled and the town made an open port.

3.—Japan also asked to have representatives in Chita, Vladivostok, Nikolayevsk, and the other principal Siberian towns.

and also provide for the return of money which Japan advanced for waging warfare against the Chita government.

It was over this article that the hardest battle occurred. There is great secrecy as to this, but it is reported that the entire deal was a Japanese method of keeping the province upset by playing and financing one faction against another, obtaining treaty promises in return.

Thirteen Japanese military aviators will leave Japan tomorrow for Siberia. It is believed that they are going for purposes of reconnaissance and at the same time to throw a chill over the Partisans or Chita troops who may attempt to regain Habarovsk which was recently taken by Vladivostok troops sent northward by Japanese consent.

POLICE BATTLE LOOP DRY GOODS STORE ROBBERS

With several policemen and detectives less than a block away and with a number of Christmas morning early risers passing, three robbers drove up before the Charles A. Stevens & Bros. store at 17 North State street, at 7 o'clock yesterday morning, hurled an automobile jack through a large plate glass window and seized a $1,350 fur coat.

Detectives Kane and Lee of the central detail heard the crash and ran to the store just as the robbers sped away. Commanding a taxicab, the detectives gave chase, firing at the robbers' car as it sped north in State street.

Pedestrians Duck Bullets.
Pedestrians ducked into doorways as the robbers blazed and other automobilists sought safety in side streets.

At Lake street the robbers turned west, with the detectives in close pursuit, but as the taxicab made the turn it skidded and crashed into the curb, smashing a wheel. Before another car could be enlisted for the pursuit the robbers made good their escape.

They are believed to be the same men who a few minutes earlier smashed a plate glass window in the store of Foreman & Clark, 222 South State street, and took a number of suits of men's clothing.

Rob South Chicago Safe.
Industrious safe breakers chopped a large hole in the brick wall of the general merchandise store of Harris Kahn, 8401 Buffalo avenue, then smashed the safe with sledgehammers and took $1,000 in cash, three machine pistols, and three silk chemises for their trouble.

Two young men held up W. J. Lucas in his restaurant at 3305 South Halsted street and took $100.

CHRISTMAS CARD LEADS FUGITIVE TO POLICE CELL

Ever since last February James Tutt, colored, of St. Louis, has been hiding from "the officers." While his wife attempted to provide food and clothes for Johnny, the 5 year old son, he has been living at 10 East 37th street and "laying low." Two checks, one for $33 and one for $23, kept him from returning to St. Louis.

Yesterday Tutt got a postal card. On one side was a picture of Santa. On the other was scribbled this message:

"Please, papa, won't you come home for Christmas? Mamma and I want you.—Johnny."

Last night Tutt walked up to Acting Sergeant Thomas Meagher at the Central detail.

"Arrest me," he pleaded. "I'm not going to hide any longer. I want to get back to my family."

MEXICO TRIES TO ALIENATE LATIN FRIENDS OF U.S.

Industriously Conducting Propaganda.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]
Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—While sending emissaries to the United States seeking recognition for the Obregon government and pleading with Americans visiting Mexico City to return to their own country and exert every influence to bring about such recognition, Mexico has been industriously conducting propaganda in various other parts of Latin America to alienate the friendship of those countries from the United States and to promote their definite alignment with Mexico.

It is now known that at no time since Carranza conceived his hatred of the United States has the campaign of propaganda, initiated by him and abetted by his death in other hands and has been continued to this time, despite efforts by his successors to persuade the United States to grant recognition without the guarantee of protection of Americans and their legal rights insisted upon by the administrations in Washington.

Chief Features of Campaign.
The campaign, it is asserted, may be divided into three distinct though, in part, coincident phases, as follows:
1. The attempt to induce the secession of Los Altos, that part of Guatemala adjoining Mexico on the west coast, and its annexation to Mexico.
2. The support of the movement for a federation of Central America and its eventual union with Mexico.
3. The sending of diplomatic representatives to the various Central

HAPPINESS

FIFTY years ago Christmas day a wedding ceremony was performed in a little Illinois town, whereupon Mr. and Mrs. James Spencer Conklin started life together. Yesterday the couple sat in their home at 1709 Lay-

MRS. JAMES S. CONKLIN.

American countries with instructions to work for the federation, Mexican supremacy, and hostility toward the United States.

Evidence of this conduct on the part of the Mexican government while she was endeavoring in every way that could be thought of to secure recognition is plentiful. Much of it is in the files of the state department and has been carefully studied by American officials.

Plot to Annex Los Altos.

Recently, since the overthrow of the pro-Mexican government of Carlos Herrera in Guatemala, the Mexican legation in Guatemala City has been used as a meeting place for conspirators aiming to bring back into power the overthrown Herrera government.

Lack of communication between Guatemala City and Los Altos (the highlands), that part of the country lying close to Chiapas, in Mexico, has been a source of temptation to the Mexican politician on more than one occasion. President Estrada Cabrera was able, by careful and thorough organization, to prevent actual invasion of that section by Mexican troops a number of times. With his downfall and the coming into power of the Herrera regime the Mexican authorities began systematic propaganda among the people of Los Altos looking toward the annexation of that district to Mexico, at the same time encouraging the "unionist" movement, with the alleged object of controlling the whole of Central America. The Mexicans were playing a double game even with their friends, hoping to get a part of Guatemala even if they lost the bigger stakes—all of the isthmus.

Guatemalans Discover Intrigue.

The government of Herrera, despite the efforts of Mexico in Los Altos, rushed headlong into the carefully prepared plan of "unionism" favored by her neighbor on the north. Obregon offered wireless outfits, 25 Carranza had done successfully before with Salvador. Herrera and his cabinet were delighted. Meanwhile Guatemalans, members of the Liberal party opposed to any Federation of Central America under the aegis of Mexico, discovered the plot in Los Altos.

Those who had fled the country were apprised secretly of the situation in Los Altos by friends who had dared to remain in the country. They quickly got word to the authorities in Washington in order that the latter appreciate what was going on under cover in Central America.

"Union Against U. S."

Mexico's plan for the formation of a federation of Central America, although two of the five countries refused to have anything to do with it, went on apace during the Herrera regime. That the pseudo unionists and Mexico planned a combination hostile to the United States is indicated by numerous documents of which the state department has knowledge. Even the public "unionist" press boasted of it.

As late as Nov. 17, 1921, the Diario Nuevo de Guatemala City, a unionist organ, declared in an editorial captioned, "The Recognition of the New Nationalist; But How Simple These Americans Are!"

"The American government understands that we can enter into alliance with Mexico tomorrow to construct the great republic of Central America and Mexico and they want, faithful to the theories of protection and sovereignty which they have been upholding since the days of Grant and Johnson, to have an assurance that we will not enter into alliance nor form part of the said great republic.

"The Simple Gringos."

"This, and the recognition of the American rights in Nicaragua for the construction of the canal of the San Juan river, will undoubtedly be mentioned in the number of assurances which the government of Washington will demand from us as a condition previous to recognition.

"And for our Bismarcks, who have never stopped to think of our national problems, who have never bothered with the future, who consider very lightly our own right to live as a whole republic, as a legitimate democracy, this condition is somewhat worthless something that would make them smile. We can imagine hearing them say, with their faces brightened up with joy and hurrying to sign, 'but how simple these gringos are.'"

MEXICO SPENDS $2,000,000 FOR RAIL EXTENSION

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

Mexico City, Dec. 25.—Director General Padres of the National Lines of Mexico reports that the government has spent this year 5,000,000 pesos ($2,000,000) in the construction of new branches of the national railways. This is the largest amount spent on this work since 1917.

During the last five years there have been spent by the government, on the extension of railway lines, "almost 20,000,000 pesos ($8,000,000).

The Mexican government is preparing to return to the stockholders the branch of the National Lines of Mexico, known as the Interoceanic railway. Efforts have been made of late to put the line into a presentable condition; and a representative of its stockholders is now on the ground looking the property over with a view to making his report to them on its condition.

RUSSIA REDS WHEEL LENIN'S WORD FOR U. S.

Dec. 24.—[United News.] Premier Lenin spoke kindly of the United States, and his favorable remarks were widely cheered by the delegates.

Another indication was the announcement that Russia had agreed to contribute $20,000,000.

Confirmed in London.

Dec. 24.—[United News.] American Relief association announced here today the soviet government had agreed to turn over $10,000,000 for transportation for America to the famine. This is to be sent in Russian gold. The association will purchase supplies in America and distribute them as soon as possible to the famine area.

"The Girl I Left Behind Me"

Yank doughboy kissing his sweetheart good-by as his unit leaves Coblenz. The German frauleins have surrendered to the conquering Yanks and they will miss them on the Rhine. As the various United States military units are sent home there is always a swarm of young women friends to bid them farewell.

With a sheaf of papers in his hand he advanced straight to the side of the red tribune in front of the president's table and stood, fumbling his papers, ready to speak. He took not the slightest notice of the applause, which lasted three or four minutes, but just stood there, stocky and square, in his black sack suit, fumbling with his wrist watch and papers. Never once did he look at these thousands of faces gazing at him with enthusiasm and affection, but waited with the phlegm of complete absorption until the noise died.

Then he plunged immediately into his speech. He spoke for two hours, and with thunderous applause.

mostly from notes, but now and then breaking into extempore utterances for five or ten minutes. At first he used few gestures, but gradually he became animated.

Jests About Russian Debts. As an orator Lenin is striking by reason of his air of utter sincerity and directness, but he is a master of irony, too. For irony alone his voice changes, and the note of mockery is as clear as the most finished actor could make it. Again and again this called forth a ripple of laughter, as when he said that other nations were now talking about holding a conference to annul debts, but Russia had done that long ago without bothering to confer about it.

After reviewing Russia's position he brought down the house by an allusion to the hostility of Poland, Roumania, and Finland and warned any small nations that were inclined to act as the tool of the great powers that it had better keep its hands off of Russia.

Then, with a swift transition, he turned to the burning question of the day, the new economic policy, which still causes no little heart burning among many of his followers.

Need of "Plugging." "You can get enthusiastic about wars," he cried, "and in war enthusiasm is great; but what is needed in the economic struggle is not short lived enthusiasm but steady plugging."

Then, suddenly thrusting out a menacing finger, he attacked the Communists and the Labor federations.

"Some of you talk as if being a Communist was everything; as if it dispensed you from common sense effort. Don't you realize that, on the contrary, it is for you to set an example and get things done? And you Labor federations—your wish to run factories your way and keep the control of great industry in your hands. Aren't you aware that the factories are mostly idle and your great industries are still to be as the result? You call yourselves the proletariat; but unless unity is reestablished there is no such thing as the proletariat at all."

Grain of Hope. M. Lenin told his hearer, however, that the trade figures for the latter part of the year proved that there had been a real improvement in the economic situation, although the process was bound to be gradual. For a moment he touched one of the vital points of the economic situation by the suggestion that it was necessary to pass yet more laws to stimulate foreign trade and encourage foreigners, whether as merchants abroad or in Russia, to engage in industrial enterprises. This indicated M. Lenin feels assured of the loyalty of his followers.

MARINES GUARD MAN MOB SEEKS AFTER SLAYING

Key West, Fla., Dec. 25.—Pursued by a mob, Manuel Head, restaurant proprietor, charged with having killed William Becker, today took refuge in the cupola of a private dwelling and for a time was the target for a heavy fire from pistols and rifles.

Having been induced to surrender, he was escorted to jail by a detachment of marines. The marines were kept around the jail tonight. The shooting grew out of an attack upon Head Friday night by a masked band. The restaurateur declared he had recognized three of the band when he stripped their masks off.

HIGH CHURCHMAN CALLS NATIONS 'TIGER-WOLVES'

Bishop Charles F. Anderson of the Episcopal church in speaking last evening at the Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall on the subject, "A Christmas Message," described the nations in the Versailles peace conference as "tigers, bears and wolves." He asked of his audience, "Do you Baptists love the Episcopalians? Do you Methodists love the Catholics?" He said, "Recent actions on the part of both labor and capital have been incalculably stupid," and, "that after our tests of strength for centuries the world is virtually paralyzed."

"Pestilence and famine rage," he said. "Thousands of Chinese and Russians are starting to death; there is revolution in Ireland, a national strike in India and deep hatred growing between France and Germany. Brotherhood, partnership is the solution. The need of the time is not brute strength, but rather those governing principles which the religion of Jesus Christ is capable of inspiring."

GOOD GIEER! U.S. GREETING TO 750 SAD IMMIGRANTS

Aliens Given Christmas Fete on Ellis Island.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES.
New York, Dec. 25.—(Special.)—"A merry Christmas to all!" It was America's greeting to the immigrants detained at Ellis Island over the holidays.

Seven hundred and fifty foreigners, sitting in the large flag draped room at the island, took up the slogan and translated it into Polish, French, Norwegian, Slavic, and twenty or so other languages and dialects, as they laughed and cried and toiled Santa Claus' whiskers, and smiled as they swallowed hard. Finally, standing up on their chairs, they sang "The Star-Spangled Banner," or watched those who were singing.

It all took place at the Ellis Island Christmas party given this afternoon by Commissioner Robert E. Todd, in conjunction with the General Welfare Immigrant committee, composed of fifteen racial and denominational organizations.

No Cure for This Nostalgia.

Home sick, but with no home. It is the curiously pitiable situation of the 1,131 immigrants now held in detention, including, besides the 750 at the party, the hospital cases, the special warrant cases, and the special investigation cases.

Home sick, in spite of a real turkey dinner, with ice cream; in spite of Santa Claus distributing at least five gifts per person; in spite of the forty foot evergreen tree, gorgeous with brilliantly colored lights, fragile ornaments, and jeweled snow; in spite of the quantities of oranges and apples and candy; in spite even of the beating of 100 drums by 100 immigrant children representing a haphazard composite of youth from Russia, Portugal, from Norway to Jugoslavia.

Three wise men from the east, gaunt, spare, bright of eye, and with the long white beards of patriarchs, sit together, their heads bent low. They are determined to be indifferent to the opening strains of "E. E. E." as it reverberates to the farthest and greenest hill wreath in the gloomy.

Tears in Old Men's Eyes.

A few measures, however, and the first of the three men coughed as he

A LIVING FLOWER

MISS FRANCES MOREY.
(Tribune Photo.)

A photographer who visited the annual midwinter flower show at the Garfield park conservatory yesterday caught little Miss Frances Morey, 3528 West Congress street, explaining to her new Christmas doll the mysteries of botany and horticulture amid a garland of red, white, and pink poinsettia. Hundreds of persons visited the conservatory yesterday. The show will continue until Jan. 8. It consists of about 9,000 flowering plants, arranged and grown under the direction of August Kock, the horticulturist at the park.

brushes a shiny black sleeve across eyes that are no longer bright. A few more measures, and each of the three is back home. They forget to brush away the tears.

But it isn't all tears; much of it is fun, but the subdued fun of subdued people. In spite of the constant order given the children, "make as much noise as you want today," it takes time for a little boy from the famine regions, a little boy with the body of an old man and the wrinkled face of age, to learn, all over again, how to be a noisy youngster. He is content simply to hold quietly in his hand the whistle Santa Claus gave him.

It takes time for the peasant girl from Czechoslovakia, with the heart of a child and the stature of a woman, to ask Santa for a doll. And when she gets it, she smoothes the frilly creature in the folds of her red and blue apron.

She has it, her first doll. Time enough later on to play with it.

Best Christmas on Island.

"I believe this is the jolliest Christmas we ever had here," said Miss Alma E. Mathews, for the last thirty-three years welfare worker at the island under the direction of the Methodist Episcopal church.

"It's had enough for any one to be away from home Christmas. We want to do everything we can to help the 1,131 immigrants now in detention have as good a time as possible," said Commissioner Todd, recently appointed head of Ellis Island and the man responsible for reforms in administration, which have been instituted or are about to be.

Many of these reforms are a direct answer to charges made against Ellis Island conditions in a recently published series of articles in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Many of the reforms coincide exactly with suggestions made as a result of that investigation.

POLICE ARREST THREE IN GROCERY.

The Maxwell street police were called to the grocery of Mary Joe and Rose Mitchell at South Union avenue and Maxwell street yesterday where they found the women and Albert Went, 40 years old, 733 South State street. Went charged the women had stolen $50 from him and they asserted that he had attempted to attack them. All three were locked up.

"GOOD WILL" SHIP TO CARRY FUNDS TO A. E. F. AREAS

New York, Dec. 25.—(Special.)—Announcement is made by the executive committee for devastated France, of which Miss Anne Morgan is chairman, that the "Good Will" ship, carrying delegates from all parts of the United States to the regions in France where American soldiers fought and died, will sail for Europe in the coming summer. The vessel will carry 300 or more delegates with a substantial purse to France, the money to be used in the rehabilitation of those districts where the American troops were most active.

President Harding has written a letter to Miss Morgan, in which he endorses the movement and wishes it every success. The delegation will start probably in August, and will be officially received by representatives of the French government. They will tour the devastated regions before returning to America. Myron T. Herick, United States ambassador to France, is strongly in favor of the delegation also visiting the French battlefields.

Dec. 15, Reports Disclose
Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—On Dec. 15 there were 531,337 idle freight cars "because of business conditions," according to reports received by the American Railway association. Of these 371,221 were surplus freight cars in good condition which could be placed in immediate service if conditions warranted, as compared with 339,532 on Dec. 8.

Mexico Restores Coffee Plantations to Production

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
MEXICO CITY, Dec. 25.—The work of regenerating the Mexican coffee plantations of Vera Cruz, Oaxaca, Chiapas, and Tabasco is actively going on, and the output for this year promises to be from two to three times what it was last, with the prospect of largely increasing this output for 1922.

CITY AIDS OLD SANTA SCATTER CHRISTMAS JOY

Every One Joins in Day of Celebration.

If anybody went hungry yesterday, it was his own fault. It didn't stop at every chimney, it was the sky line, it must have been because he wasn't tipped off to the fact.

Christmas activities were centered around the tree and around the table. The fortunate to have tables of their own burdened them with Garbancian feasts. For others, such as the homeless, poor children, and the like, the feast was a less hearty one.

Christmas mothers of Chapter No. 1, of the Order of the Eastern Star, fed 100 unemployed ex-soldiers a bounteous banquet at King's restaurant yesterday.

Orphans Entertained.
The wide-eyed little orphans sat around an immense turkey dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Linson, at 559 East 34th street. Santa Claus, by special appointment, appeared at the proper time to hand out the presents.

A fragment of German shell in the spine of a young man of 2123 Bissell street. The operation was performed, in the presence of the German hospital. The boy, who has not entered for his service, a host of friends and relatives were there to greet him.

Out of town girls living in boarding houses escaped the tragedy of a Blue Christmas at a "cheer up party" at Central Y. W. C. A., 59 East Madison street. They frolicked around the Christmas trees, listened to music, played games, and got acquainted with each other.

Mary Pickford Helps.
Kids at the Home of Destitute Children had a rare treat in the afternoon when the hall was darkened and a moving picture with Mary Pickford in it flashed on the screen.

The last Tuletide party in the old "M. E. church," at Washington and Clark streets, was held last night. The annual Christmas comes around will be in operation on a new building.

Leo E. Wolf, manager of the Greenebaum Safe Deposit company, played "Good Fellow" to half a dozen poor children from Irish and Italian families at his home at 411 East 46th street.

JESSAMY BRET HARTE
STEELE.
[Lansom Photo.]

New York, Dec. 25.—[Special.]—The discovery of Jessamy, favorite daughter of Bret Harte, in an Ogdensburg, N. Y., insane asylum, aroused the author's admirers today. Inquiries were instituted as to the possibility of her recovery. If her condition warrants steps probably will be taken by New York bibliophiles to obtain her release.

The chief of police clown was at his best yesterday at the Christmas tree festival and Toyland Circus at the Coliseum. He gave his little admirers rides on the Ferris wheel, the whip, and the merry-go-round, and tickled 'em half to death by his pranks. Thousands more of tickets to the circus have been distributed among the children.

Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman, who invited the grownups, too, said that the show would continue till Wednesday night.

K. of C. Are Hosts.
Capt. Gus Thoma of the West Park police gave the boys with new Christmas mas skates a present with reverse English yesterday. He prohibited skating in the west parks for some time, because of the weakness of the ice. Police will be stationed at the ponds to see that overzealous youngsters don't violate the ruling.

St. Rita council of the Knights of Columbus will entertain a thousand southwest side children at the auditorium at 634 street and Washburn avenue this afternoon. Each child will get a big bag of candy, presented personally by Santa Claus, who is working overtime this year.

Mrs. J. Ogden Armour sent her phonograph, with records, to the county jail, to entertain the thirty women prisoners. "Ballin' the Jack" was succeeded under the needle by "Ave Maria," sung by John McCormack. All were liked. Violins and guitars were distributed among the cells by Jailer Peter Lawrence, along with a big chicken dinner, while 125 boys detained at the jail school gathered around a Christmas tree.

Inmates, as vaudeville performers, will entertain other inmates at the bridewell today. Yesterday's recognition of the occasion was limited to religious services.

Entertainers sang carols in all wards at the county hospital. Children in the Contagious Disease hospital and the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, with well filled stockings, retained their faith in Santa Claus. The Chicago chapter of the Red Cross sent 800 baskets to children in the Contract hospital.

The management of the Windsor Park hotel, 7601 Saganaw avenue, entertained fifteen ex-service men at dinner. Keeping up her twenty year old custom, Miss Julia Gleason, a social worker, furnished a big dinner for ten women held at the Harrison street station annex. Food that was left over was given to the fifteen men in the cell rooms.

Misses Frances Paperte and Jeanne Dussau of the Chicago Grand Opera company, and Assistant Conductor Bianca Rosa, were so interested in entertaining patients at the Psychopathic hospital yesterday afternoon that they arrived at a rehearsal ten minutes late.

"Our Country! In her intercourse with foreign nations may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong."

—Stephen Decatur.

THE TRIBUNE'S PLATFORM FOR CHICAGO

1—Build the Subway Now.

PRO BONO MILITIS; PRO BONO PUBLICI.

The above may be hog latin, but it's horse sense. We translate it to our purpose as meaning, "For a Soldier's Bonus for the Good of the Public."

The nation needs the good will of contented war veterans for its own good. These are the men upon whom it has called in time of need to save it from ruin. They or their children are the men upon whom it must rely, in peace or war, to preserve its institutions and integrity. It cannot safely or properly rely upon them if it leaves them with a conviction that it treats them unjustly, that it demands in personal sacrifice more than it gives in security, liberty, opportunity, and pride and faith in country, for themselves and their families.

There is little doubt that such a conviction exists in the hearts of many American veterans of the world war today. Whether it is perfectly well founded is beside the point. It exists, and so is a weakening influence in our national life. Whether a bonus, or adjusted compensation, as it is better called, will relieve the actual need is also beside the point. It will convince the men that their country is willing and anxious to play square with them. That, perhaps, is more important to national welfare and of more advantage than the threatened shock to business through providing a bonus is a disadvantage.

That the proposed bonus will not relieve all need, that many of the men will soon find themselves again in straits, and come back for more, is not sufficient argument against it. We might as well argue that a Good Fellow is wrong in providing a poor family with Christmas dinner because the family may be in as great need at Easter. We at least relieve the pressure temporarily, and what is more important in the soldiers' case, prove that as a nation we are not ingrates. That binds us together and strengthens us.

The veterans have shown themselves reasonable. Now, through the American Legion officials who helped to write the proposals for adjusted compensation before congress, they are showing themselves wise. They are not asking for a cash handout of large amount to every one of our more than 4,000,000 veterans. They have suggested alternatives, which will help the ambitious to their feet, provide for future benefits at no added cost but with greater ease to the government, and specify cash payments only to those whose immediate needs appear more urgent than their future possibilities. Adjusted compensation undertaken in that spirit is, we believe, for the good of the public, despite the fact that it will entail some public sacrifice. The war itself was a sacrifice, but it was undertaken for the good of the public.

THE SUBMARINE.

The debate over the submarine raises some interesting questions which have been touched upon in these columns from time to time, especially during the years of submarine controversy culminating in our declaration of war with Germany.

The Tribune then insisted that our government should not commit itself to a doctrine which later would be cited against our interest. In our view, the submarine is a valuable agent of defense and would be needed by us to interrupt the line of communication between an enemy's home and a base it might succeed in establishing on this continent or within striking distance of our shores or possessions. We considered, and it is now contended by our delegation, that the submarine is especially a weapon of defense and a legitimate arm for a nation like ours maintaining a nonaggressive policy.

The British position is quite understandable and based like our own and that of France and Italy on considerations of self-interest. Possessing the greatest fleet of surface craft, it is natural that Great Britain should seek to outlast a weapon so efficient against merchant craft and against the long distance communications upon which the British islands depend for supply and for effective strategy in war.

There is an opposition of interest which ought not to be concealed by a pretense of moral considerations. It is not pleasant to think of attacks upon unarmed merchantmen, especially passenger craft, but war is not pleasant and the attempt to draw a line of distinction between supply and military operation is not persuasive in view of the fact that modern war involves and relies upon an organization and utilization of whole nations. Men engaged in supplying a people who are devoting all their resources to the support of an army are in combatant service.

How effective rules regulating the tactics of submarines may be, we cannot predict. Conventions to ameliorate warfare have had some effect, but they have not withstood the pressure of military necessity and we think never will. The public opinion of the world will serve as restraint up to a certain point, not thereafter, and rules intended to check the rise of effective forms of force, such as a submarine or gas, are either evaded or defied when a nation thinks victory is in the balance.

Proposals for the prohibition of poison gas or the submarine get their force from our humane instinct against the physical cruelty of war, but they are not well supported by reason or experience. The most practical objection to them is based on the realization that such prohibitions do not prohibit, but on the contrary put a premium on their evasion and give advantage to the most unscrupulous or, at any rate, the most desperate.

Another objection is that the methods or agencies prohibited are no more cruel than those accepted. Because they are novel they are thought to be but they are not. Gas, for example, in fact causes more suffering than the fragment of a shell burst by high explosive or the leaden bullets poured forth in a stream by a machine gun. We think most of the protest against gas is made by men who have never been in the front line, and we believe that if a veteran of actual experience were consulted he would say without hesitation that he would take his chance with gas rather than with that most ancient and accepted device, the bayonet. War is hell and cannot be anything else. The way to avoid its sufferings is not by attempting to make it as painless as tennis but by checking its causes and trying to bring mankind gradually to a better method of composing its differences. We think there is rational hope shining down that path, but well meaning humanitarians meanwhile do little good by experiments in amelioration which do not work and sometimes even make a bad matter worse. Our hope lies in the removal or regulation of the causes of war and our general advance in good will, intelligence, and self-restraint. It does not lie in putting over methods in the use of force, the inherent and unavoidable nature of which involves pain.

SACRAMENTAL GRAPE JUICE.

Ralph A. Day, prohibition director for the state of New York, says that the department is working on the theory that fermented wine is not necessary for sacramental purposes. The proposed plan has the tentative approval of Commissioner Roy A. Haynes, who contemplates the substitution of specially prepared fruit juices for fermented wine. "We are planning to do away with sacramental wine for all faiths," Mr. Day is quoted as saying. They are planning to get everybody into a great deal of trouble and have selected a fine place to begin. New York is one-third Jewish, one-third Roman Catholic, and the other third mixed.

The prohibition directors say in effect that they intend to interfere with the sacraments of the Roman Catholic and the Jewish and what are sacraments for some of the Protestant churches, notably the Episcopalian.

They might as well interpose their dictates in the matter of vestments and ritual as to say what churchmen shall offer in the sacrament of communion and what shall be used in the religious observances of the Jewish faith.

There used to be in this country some things bureaucracy and even bigotry kept their hands off, and one was the issue of religious faith and observance. Evidently that day of reason has gone.

If Mr. Haynes' tentative approval becomes fixed and an attempt is made to carry it into effect, all the priests and rabbis of New York City will be in jail, and the people of the churches and synagogues will be storming the walls.

It is all a piece of the same bolt of goods, and it is from this bolt of goods that strips are being cut to bind American liberties. We wonder if the aggressors know or care where this will end.

HOW LENIN RULES.

The retreat of the bolshevik rulers of Russia from communism continues. Lenin calls it a strategic retreat; that is, it involves no concession in theory from doctrinal communism. Fanaticism will believe what it likes to believe, but Lenin is compelled to deal with realities. The communist experiment has failed miserably and the failure cannot be explained away except to Communists, who think if facts are against them as much the worse for the facts. The new economic program admits capitalism and private initiative into the reconstruction of Russia because there can be no reconstruction without them. Lenin excuses and explains to his fellow doctrinaires, but is responsible for results. As a ruler he makes concessions in action essential to his continuance in control.

But if he finds it necessary to compromise with economic necessity he has not yet been compelled to concede anything politically. In fact, his economic concessions are giving him a longer lease of power. If he stood pat upon his doctrinal program he would fail, and he does not intend to fail if he can help it.

He jettisons his principles or at least his Communist program for the sake of saving his power. That remains because Lenin is a masterful man whose fanaticism is tempered by his sense of the realities of rule. He knows well that his rule is based not on a doctrine but on force. From the first he has understood this and it was because he understood it that he rose amid chaos and controlled events as the moderates could not do.

At this stage he retains the Red army and that formidable organization, the Cheka, which controls the army. While they are loyal he can concede what he pleases, and it is evidently necessary to concede more and more as the results of Communist fallacies accumulate. But Russia now represents not a revolution but a new form of autocracy, a dictatorship not of the proletariat but of a pretorian guard. Perhaps this is necessary at this stage, but meanwhile the peoples of the world have had a striking demonstration of the unsoundness of Communism and its unfitness to sustain a society on the modern plane of civilization. Lenin may continue to rule Russia until he dies, but his doctrine is already dead among intelligent peoples. He survives upon naked force, force organized and subsidized, a czar in all but his title and the ritual which clothes his power.

Editorial of the Day

PRESIDENT KINLEY RIGHT.

[Kewanee Daily Star-Courier.]

President David Kinley of the University of Illinois, speaking in Kewanee this week, struck with force a very real menace in this country. The peril which he pointed out is that of the tendency toward class legislation. The distinguished visitor stated that it has become quite the common thing whenever anything appears wrong to hurry down to the legislature at Springfield or to congress at Washington to urge a law.

It seems that every line of endeavor in the country has its organization which seeks to obtain laws for its particular benefit. The pressure upon law making bodies does not come from citizens asking measures for the general public, but it comes from divisions and subdivisions of the body politic which are urging special legislation. This is not good for the general citizenship and that means it is not good for the country as a whole. As individuals we are dodging our responsibilities when we seek to make laws that will force somebody else to assume the burden we should bear ourselves.

President Kinley declared that if there is a slum in Chicago or in Kewanee or in Urbana then the city so affected should get right down to business and correct the trouble instead of taking the roundabout and indirect method of passing it on to the legislature or congress.

This is all good sense. The United States must veer away from that tendency to look upon the state as the master rather than as the servant of the people. The state exists to make itself useful to the public. Any view that the public exists to exalt the state is wholly wrong.

In Which We Solve a Vexing Problem.

It was Christmas day, but Old Man Dennis had had an emergency call. Mose the Demon Driver took us over in his flying Ford. Somewhere up northwest Old Man Dennis punched Mose in the back. "I think we'd better make a landing here," he shouted. Mose did a beautiful tail-spin, and after doing two figure eights and a doughnut we landed in an alley. We found the family. It was Zoulyoukeeminske, or something like that. Mother dead; father out of work, and eight children. That was the trouble. We were fixed for seven children. Mose commenced handing out one orange, one apple, one chocolate bar, one this, and one that when he stopped. "We've seven rations," said Mose, "but there's eight kids. What to do?" All the little Zoulyoukeeminskes stood as if petrified. "You know what the captain did when he had seventy-six eggs to divide equally among his seventy-seven soldiers?" "I'll bite," said Mose. "What did he do?" "Easy," replied Old Man Dennis; "he shot one of the soldiers." All the little Zoulyoukeeminskes began to wail. "Shut up," said Old Man Dennis. "We're different. Where's the nearest delicatessen store?" And the seven little Zoulyoukeeminskes led the way.

How to Keep Well.

By Dr. W. A. Evans.

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation, and prevention of disease, of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space will not permit, or the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered subject to proper limitations, and where a stamped, addressed envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease. Requests for such service cannot be answered.

POWDER AND DIMPLES.

Ordinary powder, harmless to the skin, having no poisonous qualities, one in common use as a dusting powder for both healthy and sick skins, has proven to be a cause of a skin disease closely akin to acne.

If this is true, is it not possible that using ordinary face powder, commonly held to be harmless and showing no poisons on analysis, may be one of the causes of bad skin, pimples, and other blemishes?

Read the story and form your own opinion.
The powder is oxide of zinc. The place, a factory in which this powder is made. Those affected, the employees working in the factory. The reporter, Dr. J. A. Turner. The medium of reporting, the United States Public Health Reports.

Zinc is a harmless, nonpoisonous mineral in wide use in the arts, considerably used for dusting powders and a frequent medicament employed to cure skin diseases.

In a certain factory where this substance was ground and put up for the trade fourteen out of seventeen employees gave a history of what they called the oxide pox. At the time of the investigation eight had it.

The investigation found that it resulted from the clogging up of the pores of the greasy glands with the nonpoisonous powder. Since the grease could not escape it accumulated in the glands. Those engaged in handling the powder were apt to become infected with pus, and found on all skins. This caused an eruption resembling acne.

The places where this eruption generally developed were those where two skin surfaces commonly rubbed against each other.

Sweaty areas were most subject to it. In this factory the clothing of the men was constantly drenched with this powder, and most of the shottike papules and pustules changed into two pustules were found under the clothing. The men said the disease was worse in summer than in winter.

The recommendation, so far as this industry was concerned, was—removal of dust from the air by well known devices and manufacturing methods, cleanliness of the workroom, cleaner clothing, better facilities for bathing the body as well as the face and hands.

There are not many persons engaged in the manufacture or the putting up of the zinc oxide powder, therefore, from the standpoint of employees, this subject is not one of wide interest.

But there are many million people who dust more or less of their skins rather heavily with harmless powders. They may not use as much as got on the skins of these men, but they may not rub it in as much as they do. It is suggested to alternate the use of both eyes in sight, so as to save the sight in an eye apt to go blind.

This would be done by closing one eye at a time and at intervals shifting the cover from one to the other. The object, of course, would be to conserve sight until such time as an operation for adjusting the muscular balance could be readily carried out.

SIX YEARS IS A LONG TIME.

Chicago, Dec. 19.—[Friend of the People.]—Owing to the fact that there has never been a through passage to our city it has not been cleared for six years. Recently I went to the place and piled all the ashes in one place and the garbage and refuse in another. There is now a through passage. Will the city call for it? I live in the 3800 block of Argyle street.

This is new territory where service has not yet been given. We will arrange for regular service in future.

BAD SPOT REPAIRED.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—[Friend of the People.]—At the corner of Division and Cicero avenues there is always a large puddle of water in a large hole in the street. There are many trucks driving through there and people transferring their cars at that point. It needs attention badly.

The bad spot at the transfer corner of Division and Cicero avenue will be repaired with stone in a day or two.

AN APPRECIATION OF H. G. WELLS.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—Having read the XXIX articles by Mr. H. G. Wells to the end, I feel impelled to say thanks to Mr. Wells for his invaluable contributions and to the editor of THE TRIBUNE for procuring and publishing same.

The beauty of Mr. Wells' philosophy lies in its simplicity and clarity, which makes it comprehensive and convincing to the most untutored mind. The truths of life exposed by Mr. Wells can be grasped readily by even a child, and if he has not yet won the world for his teachings the fault lies with the corrupted minds of our present civilization.

It seems that if every nation had but one Wells once in every century the world would have been unlike what it is today. We would have had no need for the "conference on limitation of armaments," which, under the present circumstances, is the greatest and the best thing the world has, and it is likely that we would have no need for all the prisons, lunatic asylums, charitable institutions, and all like evidences of the unfit national and international arrangements.

The expression of my appreciation would be incomplete without emphasizing the generosity of the editorial policy, outlined in the splendid editorial on the "Suppression of Free Press." The fact that the foreign offices of two governments have protested against the articles is the best evidence of the fact that these governments need more publicity; it is evident that these governments have much to conceal and therefore fear publicity.

FOR INTERNATIONAL TRADE ENVOYS.

Jackson, Mich., Dec. 20.—Now that we are at peace with all the nations of the earth, this government, business firms, and all the leading newspapers should send a special trade ambassador to visit every country in the world to create a closer trade and business feeling.

The end of the world war means we are just starting anew, and this would quicken the return to a fuller understanding and a steady increase of trade.

W. H. BRENNEN.

ALL BAD! AND SOME WORSE.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—In today's TRIBUNE an editorial ends with this unchanging verity: "Parents can do more to keep their children decent than all the laws ever conceived by man and reformer."

They won't, however; that is the depressing fact of the matter. Parents who go in for jazz, movies, yellow news and "literature," and tenth century "religious" dogmas are foredoomed to rear wastrels and morons and boneheads. The minds, morals, and impulses of the overwhelming majority of this nation's population are in a state of offensive decomposition. This is due primarily to ignorant and self-seeking leadership on the part of teachers, priests, ministers, editors, politicians, physicians, reformers, and writers. Scientific despotism offers the only way out of a putrid mess.

Cathedral of all the Stores

UNTRAMMELED and fair
like a thing of dreams,
Its granite walls uprise:
Four square to the world, symmetrical, true,
It towers 'neath bending skies.
To the north and south, to the east and west,
Swing gates to wondrous floors—
Built for service, aye, proudly it stands,
Cathedral of all the stores.

And radiant stretch the passes within,
Like fairied aisles they run
Mid postured columns, uplifted and white
As snood of cloistered nun.
Ever and ever press myriad feet
Expectant thru the doors—
Built for service, securely it stands,
Cathedral of all the stores.

And here ingathered from places anear,
And lands beyond the sea,
Are wonderful wares for uses of men,
Rare works in artistry.
And so shall it stand with a fame unmatched
Here, or on distant shores,
Built for service, the marvel of men—
Cathedral of all the stores.

FRANCE URGES PACIFIC TREATY ON EUROPE SEAS

BY HENRY WALES.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

(Copyright: 1921: By The Chicago Tribune.)

PARIS, Dec. 25.—France will propose another multi-power treaty, the signatories pledging themselves to observe a status quo in the European waters of the Atlantic, the Mediterranean, and the Adriatic.

The new treaty will be similar to the quadrilateral pact of the Pacific, but will include Italy and cover the Atlantic, the North sea, the Mediterranean, and the Adriatic.

This, I am informed, is France's sole condition for accepting any reduction below the 90,000 tons of submarines originally demanded.

Instructions to Jussierand.

Qual d'Orsay this evening is preparing an addition to the codes of instructions to Ambassador Jussierand and Admiral De Bon urging a firm maintenance of this position. Premier Briand is expected to approve the draft tomorrow, so that the delegates at Washington will receive it prior to the Tuesday discussion.

The French realize that a treaty covering European waters may shock the state department and arouse antagonism in the senate, but it is felt, if the Pacific treaty is ratified, there is no reason why an Atlantic treaty should be rejected in view of the United States' possessions of Porto Rico and the Danish West Indies and its interest in Cuba, Haiti, and the Panama canal approaches. It is suggested that the treaty act as a guarantee of the internationalization of the Dardanelles to prevent its falling into the hands of the British.

Standards Pat on $9,000.

In the absence of such an arrangement the French authorities tonight state their intention of standing pat for 90,000 tons, representing a fleet of fifty-six submarines, of which from twelve to fifteen can be counted on to be continually in commission, as war experience proves that the Germans kept a quarter of their U-boats at sea. M. Briand is conscious of his precarious position and realizes that concessions to England on submarines will result in the immediate downfall of the cabinet.

Critics of Hughes.

The press this afternoon comments more in sorrow than in anger that Secretary of State Hughes is "playing England's game." The Bon Soir suggests that Americans do not comprehend the importance of the question and the Temps states point blank that submarines will continue regardless of the Washington conference.

The Temps forebodes France's alternative proposal of a five power treaty, stating that the limitation of capital ships was adopted because the three powers principally interested had reached an agreement to avert war in the Pacific and then asks why the powers do not reach an accord similarly as to European waters.

The Italian and Japanese refusals of Mr. Hughes submarine allotment please the French as proving that France is not unreasonably obstinate.

IF YOU have any thought of buying a piano—now or at some future time—you will find these paper floor patterns very helpful in determining how to arrange your room for a piano, and what style instrument would be best. They show the exact space required for the Apartment Grand Piano and for the upright. As the full keyboard is indicated, the effect is very realistic. The Junior Unfolding Two-Level Pedal

A feature your piano should have Read what great pianists say of this revolutionary invention recently perfected by Lyon & Healy.

Fannie Bloomfield-Zeisler:

Every piano, without exception, should be equipped with the Junior Pedal.

Sergei Rachmaninoff:

Much of the beauty of piano playing is lost unless the pedals are employed. Children should learn to use the pedals as early as possible.

Moissaye Boguslawski:

I have today examined your new Junior Piano Pedal and am delighted with this remarkable invention. It comes to me as a long-felt want.

Percy Grainger:

Every child should begin to use the pedals as soon as it begins to play, and your invention now makes this simple and easy.

Leopold Godowsky:

A very ingenious and valuable invention. All piano manufacturers should adopt it.

Rudolph Ganz:

I wish I could be a small boy again to be able to make use of the Junior Pedal. The pedal is the soul of the piano.

Harold Bauer:

I would be glad to see such a pedal adopted by all piano makers and placed into every instrument.

E. R. Schmitz:

I think that the Junior Piano Pedal solves the problem of musicianship, so long withheld, for children, permitting them to be interested in tone production from the first.

Also splendid values in Player Pianos

These are instruments of true musical worth. They hold keen enjoyment for the first-time performer. Playing the standard 88-note rolls, they enable the untrained to enjoy the best of music—both classical and of the day.

The trained musician as well finds in them unlimited opportunity for expression. They bring to him new phases of expression and technique.

In beauty of tone, skill of workmanship, and excellence of material they stand out as notably superior pianos.

At the new prices, purchase of one of these instruments would save you considerable. See and hear these pianos at your first opportunity.

Lyon & Healy Reproducing Piano

Would you not be proud to hear Paderewski, Hofmann, Bauer, or other famous pianists in your home during one evening? This is a thought well worth pondering. To stop a minute and estimate what great musical delights would be yours from such a concert is enough to impress you with the unusualness of the Lyon & Healy Reproducing Piano. These great artists come to you occasionally on the concert stage. You hear their matchless art and then they are gone. The Lyon & Healy Reproducing Piano makes their art intimately yours. You may hear the great artists, through the medium of their rolls, play with all the fire, expression, and genius which characterize their actual playing. Uprights are from $1100 up. Grands from $1950 up.

A wise investment of Xmas money

Music is as essential a part of the home as the fireside. For you to make it your own is to enjoy an unfailing source of entertainment. What more delightful way could you choose of investing your Christmas money? Other purchases, highly appreciated at the time, cannot equal the supreme joy in a Lyon & Healy Apartment Grand Piano. If you are puzzling over what to do with gifts of money received by you, this is a possession which can be enjoyed by the entire family collectively. They can all share in it.

Come in and reserve the instrument of your choice. You need pay nothing down. There is only a small cartage fee. The balance you may settle later in convenient monthly payments.

Bargains in Used Pianos

A good used piano is far better than a new one of inferior musical quality. Do not be misled by a hasty investigation. A piano is a permanent investment and should be treated as such. Examine as many instruments as possible in order to get a fair estimate of what to expect. Here you will find hundreds of instruments plainly price-marked. Small parlors assist you in the thorough examination of tone and action.

JAP PORTS, GOOD FOR SUBS, FLANK U.S. ROAD TO EAST

BY WALTER WILGUS.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

TRUK, Caroline Islands, Dec. 19.—By the stroke of a pen at Versailles Japan acquired a half dozen naval bases in the Pacific lying directly south of the route between San Francisco and Manila. In the opinion of competent naval officers they will make the task of an American fleet in the Pacific immeasurably harder and practically will shut off the lines of communication with the Philippine Islands.

These bases are the Marshall and Caroline Islands which Japan holds under a mandate of the league of nations. By the terms of the mandate Japan is forbidden to erect fortifications there. There is no direct evidence that they are doing so. The islands are natural strongholds, however, which it would be a waste of money to fortify extensively. Most of them could be put in condition for defense overnight. Nearly all consist of a few square miles of mountainous land surrounded by coral reefs. The harbors are entered by narrow, winding channels which are hardly navigable without pilots and which can be shut up completely with a few mines.

Fine for Submarines.

Although the channels are seldom deep enough to accommodate the largest vessels, they have ample depth for the smaller craft. As natural bases for destroyers, submarines and light cruisers the islands are ideal.

During the war some of the harbor entrances were mined. Since then the Japanese say that the mines have been removed and that there are no defenses of any kind in the mandated islands. This claim is disputed by designers of long residence in the Caroline and Marshall Islands, who state that Lanang Island, which commands the entrance to Ponape harbor, is being fortified, and who also declare that the Japanese have laid in 75,000 tons of coal and a considerable supply of fuel oil on the various islands, presumably for the use of war vessels. As no other ships coal here, these statements appear doubtful, at least as far as the West Carolines are concerned. If true, the Japanese have successfully camouflaged their preparations.

No Ports Visible.

No fortifications of any kind are visible at Palao, Unguar, Yap or Truk. Palao has a fair sized coal supply and a few hundred barrels of cement near the harbor, but this the Japanese say is to be used in the construction of civil government buildings.

Rear Admiral K. Nossaki, the governor of the mandate islands, states that the Japanese forces consist of 154 officers and 243 men. There are barracks on most of the islands capable of accommodating considerably larger numbers, and one old gunboat, named the Yodo, is stationed at Truk for patrol work.

Truk, which is the seat of the government, is kept in communication with all the principal islands and Japan by a powerful radio with a range of over 1,000 miles. There are lower powered radios at Palao, Yap, Ponape, Kusaie, Wotje, Saipan and the Bonins.

First hand observation shows that Japan is doing little, if anything, to strengthen the islands, but there are important harbors and natural naval bases which could be converted into strongholds at a moment's notice. Furthermore, they are directly on the flank of the American communications with the Philippines and the far east. In case of naval operations in the Pacific American vessels would have to run a gantlet for many hundred miles.

Mexican "Exiles" Return; Oregon Has No Fear

Mexico City, Dec. 25.—The war department reports a steady stream of returning Mexican "exiles." These belong to all stripes of politics, but most were followers of Carranza, under whom they held positions of importance. Many of the old Diaz party are also coming back, since there seems no hope of either of these old parties becoming strong again.

BOOST ZONING BILL IN HEALTH BULLETIN 'NEWS'

Division of the city into residential, commercial and industrial districts, as proposed by the Mueller zoning bill, passed last July, received a boost in an article published in this week's health department bulletin.

Following the announcement that Mayor Thompson had appointed a committee of twenty-two, headed by Building Commissioner Bestrom, there has been considerable argument both for and against the proposed plan.

A few of the arguments in favor of zoning given by the health department are that it affords the poor man such security from nuisance and invasions as the rich may provide at great expense and that it provides a suitable place for the factory where the rattle of machinery does not intrude upon the rest and quiet of the home.

APOPLEXY CAUSES DEATH.

Apoplexy is believed by the Shakespeare avenue police to have caused the death of Mrs. Eva Renoske, 62 years old, 2144 North Irving avenue, yesterday at her home.

APPEAL TO CITY TO BUY ALL OF VETERANS' WORK

This is an advertisement on behalf of wounded soldiers.

One of the most important left over Christmas sales will be at 167 North Michigan avenue, where handwork of service men in hospitals of the city has been on display for several days. All except about $400 worth of it has been disposed of.

Officers of Hyde Park post No. 34, American Legion, last night appealed to Chicagoans to see that no unsold articles are sent back to the wounded men. The store, which was let without charge, will be open tomorrow.

The wares offered include leather bags, rugs, wicker baskets, lamps and innumerable other articles. The original stock was valued at $4,000.

OPEN GAS JET KILLS MAN.

Fred W. Traxler, 50 years old, 4935 West Monroe street, a laborer, was found dead in a gas filled bathroom of his home yesterday. Gas was escaping from an open jet in the room.

Summerward FASHIONS TAKE THEIR WAY

Amid a colorful setting in which one glimpses the charm of their southern background, new fashions for every occasion of the winter playlands are given presentation. Vivid, like tropic flowers, are those for field or links.

For tea in the cooling shade the palm trees cast, are frocks of lace or supple crepes. And when "the day is done and darkness falls," frocks sparkle with crystal or gleam in the colors of sapphire and amber.

Day and Evening Frocks

Frocks in the contrasted colors of the new crepe faconne, or with lace-like encrustations of beads. Cape-like scarfs add their softness and grace.

Japonica, Pervanche, Jade, Callot-Rouge

These colors ever and again, in ever newer combinations. And taffeta frocks were never smarter than these, with their youthful bouffancy. Varying with style, at $50 and up to $185.

Youthful Debonair Frocks

Frocks that are for afternoon or evening and serve each occasion charmingly.

They are of net exquisite with hand-work and posed over silken slips—then sashed in rose-hued ribbon.

Fourth Floor, North and South.

From France

Hand-made frocks of crepe de Chine with the distinction that is in simple lines and fine hand-work. Lovely in color—orchid, peach, Nattier blue, bisque and white, $40.

Fourth Floor, North and South.

The New Sports Skirts

With a trigness of line which admits no superfluous fullness nor pleating, are the new separate skirts to wear on sports occasions.

Checks Are Used in Novel Ways

And wide "blazer" stripings are seen on many. One skirt has little cut-out circles edged in floss and little floss tassels. The effect is new and smart.

Brilliant, Especially in White, Is Noted in Many of the New Skirts

And a delightful accompaniment it is to the vivid colors and gay patterns of the new slip-on sweater coats. Skirts vary in price with style and fabric from $15 to $40.

Fourth Floor, East.

Hats Give the Color Note

Tinsel-edged ribbon binds and bands wide-brimmed hats of Tagal straw, wreathed in flowers shading from sand-color to a brilliant orange. Vivid-hued are turbans of gleaming visca cloth.

Sports hats of fine Milans have brims made of tiny loops of ribbon. Soft hats faced with crepe which reflects the color of the sports frock they are to accompany.

Pictorial Hats Are Flower-laden

And never were more telling garnitures than the exquisitely tinted crepe blossoms and clusters of grapes, cleverly made of organdy, which the new millinery fashion brings. Prices vary with style, $15 to $50.

Fifth Floor, South.

For Sunny Southern Mornings

Gingham frocks, crisp and cool, with little vestees of frilly lace. Linens, simple and tailored in line, belie their severity with gay colors. And newest in the new are frocks that combine gingham with crepe de Chine. Prices vary with style and fabric from $7.50 to $40.

Fourth Floor, East.

Frocks for Outdoor Pastime

For every sports frock, a cape to match. That's a fashion fact introduced by the new sports apparel here and assured success. Or if not a cape, then a short flaring coat. But three-piece it must be, to suit the play hours of the southern out-of-doors.

Wool Jersey and the New Rodier Materials Are Fabrics Much in Favor

Roshanara crepe combined with duvetyn is seen. Bandings done in cross-stitchery are a new trimming motif seen in a suit of brilliant green and white. Priced at $25 to $135, according to style and fabric.

Tweeds for the Journey Southward

These are in suits. Then, too, there are simple frocks of flannel, gay in color, bound with braid, assured an instant vogue by their smart lines. Priced $40 to $50.

Fourth Floor, East.

Blouses All Are Tailored

But it is that tailoring which gives an indefinable air of smartness without severity. Wee frills trace a slim, straight line about a charming collar. Countless tiny tucks accent the sheer beauty of batiste and dimity. Varying with style from $2.50 to $8.50.

Crepe de Chine blouses, simplicity itself in style, are the complements of sports skirts and travel suits. $6.50 to $15.

In both cotton and silk blouses a black cravat often gives its jaunty touch.

Fourth Floor, North.

REVERSES LEAD BUSINESS MAN TO TURN BANDIT

New York, Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Alvin J. Westling, who killed Carl Moller, an elderly jeweler, and shot Mrs. Moller in an attempt to rob them of $8,000 worth of jewelry, gave the police some details of his life today.

He pictured himself as a hard hearted, unscrupulous man who had had educational advantages and was accustomed to the good things of life, staking everything on a gambler's throw in order to rehabilitate his fortunes and enable him to live the kind of life that had been denied to him by financial reverses.

Westling said he would have been a rich man if a venture in 1917 had turned out successfully. He said he was a $10,000 a year agent of a concern negotiating a $6,000,000 contract with the former Russian government for arms and ammunition, but lost his job and an investment of $15,000 in the company when the Russian revolutionists overturned the government and put an end to the proposed contract.

Beginning of Hard Luck

At the time of the revolution Westling said he was in London preparing to sign the contract with Russian agents. He came back to this country. That was the beginning of his hard luck. He had been spending $7,500 a year, and was well known about Broadway as "Jack" Westling. His taste of high life had so enamored him that when he recently found himself making less and less money in attempting to sell stocks and bonds on commission, he determined on robbery.

"I took a gambler's chance and lost," he told the police.

They asked him if he was a gambler, and he said he had been a great poker player when he had the money. He usually won, he said.

Determined to Kill Them

He had no sympathy for Mr. or Mrs.

Moller. Some of the police asked him why he had gone to the Mollers' home. "I went there to kill them," he replied, coolly.

"No you didn't," was the reply. "You went there to commit robbery."

"Yes," said Westling, "but I knew they wouldn't let me get away with it without a fight, so I decided to get them before they got me."

Westling said he had been borrowing money heavily in order to meet the demands of his way of living, and was deeply in debt.

Man Dies from Injuries

Caused by Street Car

J. W. Milington, 55 years old, who was struck by a street car Friday night at Indiana Avenue and East 35th street, died yesterday at St. Luke's hospital. He was in the employ of the American Steel and Wire company, 208 South La Salle street.

TWO MEXICANS MUST HANG

Santa Fe, N. M., Dec. 25.—Blasquez Corral, 16, and Rosendo Lozano, 17, convicted on a charge of killing Ventura Bencomio, jailer, at Silver City April 1 last, must hang, the Supreme court refusing to grant them a new trial.

JEWISH COMPANY FORMED TO HELP REBUILD POLAND

New York, Dec. 25.—The Jewish Reconstruction company of Warsaw was organized yesterday to supply credit facilities for the crippled industries of Poland. A working capital of $5,000,000, it was announced, will be furnished by the American Jewish Relief committee.

Herbert H. Lehman, a member of the banking firm of Lehman Brothers, who worked out the operating plans of the organization, said today that it would function through local cooperative banks and business and consumer organizations, but would have its headquarters in Warsaw.

"In all of the credit transactions," Mr. Lehman said, "whether for small merchants, artisans, or farmers, no profit will be made through forfeiture, and the rate of interest will be only sufficient to pay the administrative expenses. This is a very important feature of the plan to set the Jewish population back on its feet."

FORM COMMITTEE TO OUTLAW WAR THROUGH COURT

Outlawry of war through establishment of an international court, as conceived in 1919 by the late United States Senator Knox and Salmon O. Levinson of Chicago, is the basis of a program announced last night, following more than two years of preparation.

Under the plan, war would be "against the law" and the international court would deal with offenders. An organization to put it in operation is to be established in every country of consequence. The right to repel invasions, expel aliens, and maintain other protective policies would not be interfered with.

Members of the American committee are Salmon O. Levinson, Mrs. B. F. Langworthy, Margaret D. Robbins, Prof. F. R. Moulton, Raymond Robbins, Edward O. Brown, Albert H. Loeb, Mrs. William S. Hefferan, Mrs. A. C. Decker, John M. Artman, Milton F. Goodman, and Mrs. Russell Tyson.

ALLEGED BABY SLAYER HELD WITHOUT BAIL

New Brunswick, N. J., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Despite an all night grilling by Michael O'Connell, chief of the New Brunswick police, and Detective John Ferguson of the prosecutor's office, George Gares, 54 years old, today denied all connection with the death of 5 year old Tessie Kucharski, who was murdered some time Thursday or Friday. Her body was found jammed in a suitcase in a room of the Albany hotel.

Gares was arraigned before Recorder Charles D. Tindell this morning and said he would prove an alibi at the proper time. Recorder Tindell remanded him to jail without bail on a charge of homicide. Following his sensational capture last night in an isolated hut owned by his brother, crowds gathered at the police station and there were rumblings of violence against him. The police, however, took extra precautions to prevent any attempt against the life of the prisoner.

PARIS CROWNS J. BARLEYCORN; BERLIN IN GLOOM

BY HENRY WALES.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
[Copyright, 1921, By The Chicago Tribune.]
PARIS, Dec. 25.—Nearly every one in Paris read this morning's paper before going to bed today as a great many returned to their hotels and homes at 7 or 8 and even 9 o'clock in the morning after the wildest Christmas eve in the cafes, restaurants, and theaters Paris ever has seen.
"I distributed Paris editions of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to thirty-five subscribers living here as they rolled in this morning," said Charley, the chief concierge at Charley's this afternoon. Subway and autobus officials this evening estimated that 1,100 passengers fell asleep enroute home after daybreak this morning.

The theater receipts last night were 650,000 francs (roughly $46,430), while the prices asked for seats were three or four times the amount usually asked.
The tourists, as usual, were the noisiest and latest revelers, the thirty American pilgrims, who journeyed from the desert to this oasis for the holidays, holding the lead.
"We took in $1,245 in American money alone after our Yankee clients had spent all their money," said Louis, the head waiter at Ciro's this afternoon.

Depression in Germany.
BERLIN, Dec. 25.—[United News.]—Christmas, once a time of great family cheer in Germany, this year only emphasized the depression of a defeated nation.

The former Crown Princess Cecilie and her children are at Oels, Mecklenburg, and residents at Potsdam are convinced that the crown prince will celebrate next Christmas at Oels as a private citizen. It is believed he will forward an application to enter Germany as soon as possible.

Of the Hohenzollern connections, the ex-Princess Joachim is probably the happiest since former Prince Eitel was recently compelled by court to return her son, whom he had held since the suicide of Joachim. She is spending the holidays at her father's home, Castle Dessau, in central Germany.

Wirth Stays in Berlin.
Chancellor Wirth was forced to abandon his wish to celebrate yuletide with his aged mother at Friburg, Bavaria. He remained in Berlin conferring with Reparations Minister Rathenau, and he may call a cabinet meeting later, if Rathenau's report necessitates an immediate answer to the reparations commission.

Fifty per cent of the families of Germany were without Christmas trees, owing to their scarcity because of exorbitant prices.

People actually fought for them in Berlin. Two fathers attacked a third carrying a tree, all tearing away at the bundle. A mob of 600 gathered and a minor riot was threatened. When the fight ended only the stump of the tree remained.

MECCA TEMPLE TO BUILD MOSQUE IN NEW YORK CITY

New York, Dec. 25.—[Special.]—An Oriental mosque, costing $1,500,000, is soon to be built by Mecca Temple which has purchased the site at 131 West 55th street. The property, 100 by 200 feet, now covered by a two story and a three story building, was sold by Yale university, through C. H. Kelsey, president of the Title Guarantee and Trust company. The consideration was $400,000.

It is planned to begin work at once on the mosque, to be completed and opened in connection with the fiftieth anniversary, here, the latter part of 1922, when 12,000 representatives of the 160 temples in North America, including Canadians and Mexicans, are expected.

PLEDGES' U. S. TO AID OVERTHROW OF BRITISH RULE

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)
Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Sallendra N. Ghose, director of the American commission to promote safe government in India, made public tonight the text of a poster displayed throughout British India today, pledging American support of the national campaign to overthrow British rule. The Christmas message to the people of India was signed by forty-four Americans, the majority of whom bear names indicating Irish extraction. Among the signers are former Gov. Dunne of Illinois, Mayor Hoan of Milwaukee, Senators Norris of Nebraska and Walsh of Massachusetts, and Congressman Burke of Pennsylvania.

Text of Message.
The text of the message follows:
"To the people of India:
"The United States of America has never failed to extend sympathy and support to all peoples who were struggling for freedom.
"A short time ago our army returned from overseas after having brought victory to the allied cause. Our entrance into this great struggle was predicated upon the principle that the just powers of government are derived from the consent of the governed and

BANK OF KINDNESS

Draw a Check on It for the Unfortunate.

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

Christmas festivities are not over, even if Christmas day is. This morning at 9:30 o'clock the Central Young Men's Christian association, 19 South La

Salle street, L. Wilbur Messer, general secretary, will be host to 135 small boys. There will be a Christmas tree party. Santa Claus will be L. WILBUR MESSER.

There and the young guests will go away laden with gifts intended to keep their bodies warm.

"It is the first time that just such a Christmas celebration has been held by the Central Y. M. C. A.," said N. B. Thompson, social secretary, under whose department the program is being carried out. "Our members contributed

$315 with which to purchase baskets of food and the needed stockings and underwear for the boys. We had displayed a big red stocking into which the toys were at first placed, until we had to substitute barrels because the number of toys became too many. A smaller stocking was hung for cash gifts.

"We sent out twenty-five baskets to needy families, and in each basket was an invitation for the kiddies to come down to the Christmas tree party.

The red stocking idea has taken so well that we will begin our campaign for funds earlier next year and do a larger work. The overhead expenses were paid by the social department budget, so that every cent contributed in cash and all of the gifts went directly to purposes given. In addition there was a large offering of overcoats, other clothing, and shoes, which will later be distributed to adults in cooperation with the United Charities and the Olivet institute."

GOTHAM WOMEN BEGIN ANTI-WAR CHURCH DRIVE

New York, Dec. 25.—[Special.]—The

Women's Peace society, some of whose members were "frankly grieved by the attitude of the church in the last war," today resumed their campaign to end

war. A group of the women, carrying banners and leaflets, appeared in front of churches, distributing a leaflet called

"Let Us Be Christians Again."

The churches visited included St.

Patrick's cathedral, the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, St. Thomas', Calvary Baptist, St. Bartholomew's, Trinity, the Brick church, and the Marble

College church.

"In the early days of Christianity," said Mrs. Sergeant Cram, in explaining the purpose of the demonstrations, "not only the fathers of the church held it unlawful for Christians to bear arms, but those who professed a belief in the teachings of Christ refused to use them. We are therefore urging Christians to return to the example of the early Christians and say 'I am a Christian; I will not kill, and, therefore, I will not participate in or sanction war in any way whatever."

MARINES TO STAY IN HAITI, INQUIRY BOARD'S ADVICE

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Continued occupation of Haiti by American marines and appointment of an American high commissioner to coordinate and supervise the work of American administrators created by the treaty of 1915 will be recommended by the special senate committee which recently returned from a tour of inspection in the island.

After the members had conferred with Secretary Hughes and Secretary Denby, Senator McCormick of Illinois, chairman of the committee, outlined the prospective recommendations.

Members of the committee, he said, are unanimous in the belief that the continued presence of the small American force in Haiti is as necessary to the peace and development of the country as are the services to the Haitian government of the American officials appointed under the treaty of 1915. There can be no abrogation of the treaty, and at this time no diminution of the small force of marines.

It is important that steps should be taken forthwith to coordinate the labors of the representatives of the United States government of Haiti and of the so-called American treaty officials.

There should be appointed a special representative of the President, a high commissioner in whom should be vested the usual diplomatic powers of an envoy extraordinary, and to whom, furthermore, all the American officials appointed under the treaty, as well as the commandant of the marine brigade, should look for direction and guidance.

New Loan Held Urgent.

There ought to be no further delay in the new loan, so the debt held in Europe may be discharged on advantageous terms and the just claims of Haitian citizens against their own government promptly paid. The interests of Haiti, and more particularly of the common people, require the determination of the conditions of the charter of the National bank and the early issuance of subsidiary coinage.

It should be borne in mind that the vast mass of the Haitian people, simple, kindly, gentle and generous, live in a state of almost primitive poverty and ignorance. For generations there had been no roads in Haiti prior to the arrival of the Americans in 1915. There are few trails and few towns. There was almost no travel and almost no education. Perhaps 98 per cent of the people cannot read or write.

What the Rebels Do.

All had been a prey to the revolutionary movements which swept the country with increasing frequency until the massacre of the political prisoners in the jail in Port-au-Prince in July, 1915, was followed by the murder of President Sam in the French legation.

Study Alleged Atrocities.

Although the committee found the country completely at peace it has heard all those who came before it with charges arising out of the period of lawlessness in the north and northeast of the country, two years or more ago, charges directed especially at alleged violent and illegal acts of some half dozen officers. The committee requires further time to analyze the testimony taken and to await the outcome of the inquiry instituted as a result of that testimony.

The chairman of the committee has ventured to point out the very great importance of carefully choosing for service in Haiti, in civil or military capacity, officers who are sympathetic with the Haitian people—who will seek to establish personal relations with the Haitians.

For example, in area, Haiti, which is three times as large as Porto Rico and has twice its population, in 1919 exported products to the value of $21,000,000, as against Porto Rico exports of $79,000,000, while in 1920 she exported products to the value of $19,000,000, as compared with Porto Rico with $150,000,000.

BASES OF JAPAN AND BRITAIN ARE REAL SEA POWER

U. S. Handicapped, View of Gen. Reilly.

BY GEN. HENRY J. REILLY.

[Editor Army and Navy Journal.]
Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—That each of the great powers should have a navy adequate for defensive purposes, yet too weak to warrant aggressive warfare against any of the others, is advanced in many quarters as a cardinal purpose of the conference in fixing upon the ratio of naval strengths. An examination shows this has been accomplished by the 5-3 ratio, with certain important exceptions, due to the superior overseas base facilities of Great Britain and Japan.

The demands of France for a ratio of 2 was not out of accord with such a purpose, for the reason that a ratio of 1.7 results in nullifying France's ability to defend herself against possible British or Japanese aggression. On a basis of 3 for France, Italy would have needed a ratio of about 2 for defense against French aggression, should a liberal allowance of submarine and air strength have been assigned her.

England's Naval Bases.

England's great world wide system of naval bases enables her to exert almost the full strength of her fleet in any important quarter of the seven seas. Except close to our home coast, on either coast, including both sides of the Panama canal, we would be at a distinct disadvantage, as everywhere else on the broad oceans, except within a radius of about 2,000 miles from Hawaii, and the same radius from the Pacific side of the canal, Great Britain is supreme.

On the contrary we could not be successful in naval aggression against any part of the British empire, excepting a few small islands in the Caribbean, because our lack of bases materially reduces the degree of naval effort we could make elsewhere. Moreover the combination of her ships and bases in the Orient makes Britain master of Japan there. As for Japan, who is secure against the aggression of any nation in the Orient except England. Our lack of bases prevents us from exerting sufficient power there to menace her.

Japan Can Be Aggressive.

On the contrary, Japan has the ability to be aggressive against the Philippines, a country comparable in many respects with Japan herself. These are the important exceptions. In the 5-3 ratio, to the idea that each nation should be strong enough for defense, yet too weak for aggression.

A similar purpose applied to France would permit a ratio of 3, as she would need that much for defense against the naval effort we could exert either in the Atlantic or in the Orient, and against the possible aggression of Japan in the Orient. In examining the opportunities which England, with her ratio of 5 in ships and a strong system of bases dominating French positions everywhere, it is manifest that 3 for the French navy would still constitute a defensive navy. In fact, submarines and aircraft would be an indispensable adjunct.

The latter would facilitate to some extent, the very important French communication across the Mediterranean to northern Africa, though they could not insure such communication regularly; they would partially free the access to French ports, give a small radius, and they could hamper the freedom of access to British ports.

Yet submarines and aircraft in French hands could not cut off Great Britain from her sea communications so seriously as to nullify British sea power or to cause her capitulation. A ratio of 3 for the French navy, including a liberal allowance of submarines, would not constitute any aggressive menace to Britain.

In so far as the possibilities of British aggression are concerned, Italy needs less sea power than France, since she is further removed from the British Isles and, moreover, has a more compact naval position, as compared with the French position facing two seas and with widely flung colonial possessions. Italian interests are confined almost exclusively to the Mediterranean, and, while her position there is exposed, yet her command of the Adriatic offers a strong defensive position for the Italian navy. In defensive operations there would be no occasion for Italy to embark on enterprises so distant as French Cochinchina, for example.

PLANS TO HELP 10,000 JOBLESS PROVING WORTH

Employment Bureau Has
Call for Workers.

CHARLES J. BOYD, who has weathered one year and is heading strong into a second winter, is the youngest "prisoner" in the house of correction.

Anna, 23 years old, is his mother. Anna was out of work three months ago. Petit larceny.

It was for John and Steve and Anna—and 9,997 like them—that Dr. Ben L. Reiman appealed last week to the mayor's committee on unemployment. He said there are 10,000 homeless, jobless men in Chicago.

While Willoughby Walling's motion providing against a lodging house crisis was defeated, the effort to guard against an emergency developed by cold weather has not been abandoned. But, while this is a pressing problem, it is in the nature of a side issue. The job is the thing, leaders in the effort to relieve the unemployment situation urge.

"We are getting splendid cooperation," said Charles J. Boyd, general superintendent of the Illinois free employment offices, last night. "For instance, ten men in Chicago—prominent men—have told us they will employ at least two needy family men daily."

They will give work to more if the cases are particularly desperate." Mr. Boyd said his office has orders for workers a little out of the usual. The following are needed: Lumber tallymen and graders (combined), bolt makers, machinist, marine experience, out of city; etcher on brass, hand wood turner, experienced car varnishers, car painter, experienced in lunch building, out of town, and upholsterers, on piece work. Women may find work as dictaphone operators, comptometer operators, telephone operators, experienced chocolate dippers, candy packers, olive packers, housemaids, silk lampshade makers, punch press operators, and assemblers. Much house to house canvassing work is open to both men and women.

A costive condition (cannot be seen)

You can hide it from the world. No one will know that you have such an ailment, but you cannot hide from yourself the results which are as certain as the laws of Nature. You will feel sluggish—your energy will be at low tide—and your mind will be lazy when you are costive—which is another way of saying constipated. Your liver won't function—you will have bad breath, sick head-aches, and life will be a burden.

TAKE DILAXIN for natural action when constipated. These are the tablets which are made from the famous Dillseed prescription. They are on sale at all druggists and are even now being advertised in newspapers in many sections of the country.

ALDERMEN PLAN HEAT ORDINANCE TO AID TENANTS

Public Urged to Attend
Meeting Tuesday.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

In Chicago there were 623,912 homes, according to the federal count last year. Of these 447,497 are rented. That is 73 per cent.

For the benefit of that 73 per cent of Chicago families, the council health committee is scheduled to have a meeting Tuesday. This session will be a public hearing for and against an ordinance requiring all landlords to supply sufficient heat to keep their tenants warm. The health department says that the temperature should be between 68 and 70 degrees.

Because of the continued high rents, a large percentage of the aldermen are inclined to favor the rent payers in preference to the rent collectors. If the ordinance is passed and sustained, a valid the city council will have inserted the opening wedge to the regulation of the landlords.

Gotham Has Ordinance.

From the data compiled for the committee it appears that New York, where 87.3 per cent of the 1,278,341 families are renters, passed an ordinance Oct. 17, 1918, requiring "a minimum temperature of 68 degrees Fahrenheit at all times." Newark, N. J., where 79.8 per cent of the families rent, passed an ordinance requiring the same amount of heat between 6 o'clock in the morning and 10 o'clock at night. The Newark ordinance asserts that "whether a building is heated by means of a furnace, boiler or apparatus under the control of the owner, tenant or lessee of such building, such owner, agent or lessee in the absence of a contract or agreement to the contrary shall be deemed to have contracted, undertaken and bound himself or herself to furnish heat in accordance with the provisions of this section."

Portland, Ore., also has an ordinance adopted Jan. 8, 1919, requiring 68 degrees between 7 in the morning and 10:30 in the evening. This ordinance, as well as that in New York, requires heat in places of business for the periods when they are used.

Boston has no ordinance requiring heat, but Massachusetts has a law by which a tenant can obtain heat, if it is stipulated in his lease. That law permits the tenant to punish his landlord by a "fine of not more than $100 or imprisonment for not more than six months" if the landlord fails to furnish water, heat, light, power, elevator service or telephone service, which may be stipulated in the lease or implied by the contract. In Boston 81.5 per cent of the families live in rented quarters.

Seek Renters' View.

In Chicago only 165,866 families, by the last federal count, own their homes, and of these 102,719 are mortgaged. The remaining 63,147 have their homes without any incumbrance.

The 447,497 families who rent in

CHICAGO NUMBER 45,000 MORE THAN THE TOTAL NUMBER OF FAMILIES IN PHILADELPHIA, AND 100,000 MORE THAN THE TOTAL FAMILIES OF BOTH CLEVELAND AND BOSTON

Chicago number 45,000 more than the total number of families in Philadelphia, and 100,000 more than the total families of both Cleveland and Boston or of both Pittsburgh and Detroit and 90,000 more than the total families in both St. Louis and Baltimore.

"From these 447,000 families of renters the health committee would like to get an intelligent and definite expression," said Chairman Garner yesterday. "The committee desires to be fair and just, and no doubt the real estate boards and other organized agencies will have some concrete opinions on behalf of the landlords."

"I shall suggest to the committee that it invite Judge Barasa to appear," added Ald. Horne. "He has had an unusual experience in the renters' courts and probably has some complaints on the lack of heat as well as other grievances of tenants, which the committee would like to hear."

JOBLESS, NURSE POISONS HERSELF INTO A HOSPITAL

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Dying of poisoning at Columbus hospital, Elsie Evans, nurse, is nevertheless happy as she has realized her three year ambition of getting back into a hospital, if only to die.

Back from three years' war service, Miss Evans tried in vain to obtain work at her profession. Christmas eve she could stand the fight against adversity no longer and swallowed the poison.

"Even if I'm going there to die," she told an interne on the ambulance, "I'm going to a hospital at last."

Filipinos Quit Jobs Conflicting with Politics

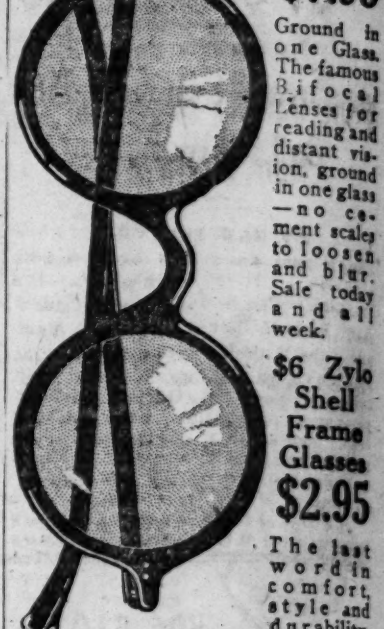

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 22.—[Delayed.]—Sergio Osmeña, speaker of the house, today resigned the presidency of the Nationalista party and the vice presidency of the council of state. Manuel Quezon, president of the senate, announced he would resign as president of the Manila railroad and permit the senate to decide whether he shall resign from the council of state. This body is composed of the president and officers in the two chambers of the legislature and heads of departments in the insular government, comprising the governor general's cabinet.

Quezon declared he and Osmeña will sever their connections with all governmental corporations in which they hold positions by virtue of their membership in the council.

SAMARITAN DAY NURSERY SEIZED BY CHRISTIANS

Gen. Collins Replaced by Gen. Z. Hayes.

BY R. E. PORTER.

[War correspondent with the Christian army.] Western Chicago Front, Dec. 25.—(Special).—The Samaritan army, led by Gen. Edward Collins, is in full flight along the Walnut street sector tonight and the Christian army, under the command of Gen. Zeal Hayes, has full possession of the day nursery at No. 2348. The army of occupation counts among its spoils of war the lives and welfare of sixteen babies and children, ranging from 1 to 6 years of age. The rout of the Samaritan army was accomplished through the desertion of Major May Lulu Breen, formerly in command of the nursery, to the Hayes forces. This she accomplished by becoming the bride of Col. "Happy" P. J. Meikel of the Christian army, there by raising, without the formality of a commission, to equal rank with him. Col. Meikel plays the tambourine with either hand.

Gen. Collins conducts a soup kitchen for down and outers at 1140 West Madison street. He is said to have about thirty-five soldiers, who seek monetary contributions and gifts of old clothing both for the unemployed and the nursery.

Reports on Nursery.

The nursery is located among that group of old, shabby frame buildings that line the west side between Lake street and the Northwestern tracks. Thus TRIBUNE's attention was attracted to it by reports that babies were being kept there in insanitary surroundings, that men and women of all types visited the place, that on one occasion a woman under the influence of liquor had been ejected from the premises.

The nursery itself is a rickety frame structure with a sagging front porch. On it is a sign: "Samaritan Army Day Nursery," and across the snow covered yard stretches another sign that is to replace it: "The Christian army." There is no bell and the reporter obtained no response to his knocks. The reporter passed into an uncar-

Call for "Mother."

The boys disappeared into the back rooms calling for "Mother." Mrs. Meikel, wearing a uniform somewhat patterned after that of the Salvation army and an apron, ushered the visitor into a cubby hole of an office, where sat Col. Meikel, a little man; Capt. Jacob F. Gates, who says he donates his time as a secretary, and a boy about 16 whom Col. Meikel introduced as his son. Tambourines and a bass drum reposed on a cot and desk.

"Something should be done to that fellow Collins," said Col. Meikel. "He has thirty-five men collecting money and clothes on the pretext that they are to go to the nursery. He has never given us a penny of it and he's storing all those clothes above his place on Madison street. He's waiting for spring to come when he expects to have enough to open a store and sell them. I've taken Mrs. Breen under my protection by marrying her and I've applied for a state charter for the Life Line nursery."

Mrs. Meikel is speaking: "Yes and that fellow Collins hasn't got a state license to conduct a nursery like this in the first place. . . . We have twenty-five children here and sixteen of them stay here all the time, night and day. (A license for a day nursery forbids the keeping of children in a day nursery over night.) We've fed them and clothed them. We buy $75 worth of milk a month. . . .

None of these children have any homes. They have been sent here from all parts of the city, even South Chicago. . . . At the health department it was said a license for a day nursery had been granted to Collins but an investigation of the sanitary conditions at the place was immediately started by Dr. Lee Stone at the direction of Dr. John Dill Robertson, with the result that the license probably will be revoked unless Gen. Hayes removes the nursery to more sanitary quarters. A receipt was granted until after Christmas so that the holiday might not be spoiled for the children—even such a holiday as they probably have.

Gen. Collins' mission on Madison street was found closed, but in an upper room at 1134 West Madison street the reporter found several men and an old woman. "Whaddya want him for?" asked the woman suspiciously. "He's out in his automobile."

Collins was reached later by phone. "Certainly we ain't givin' th' nursery any money now," he said. "We got to end it all on Christmas dinners."

REV. W. S. POND MADE RECTOR OF ST. BARNABAS

The Rev. Walter S. Pond, assistant rector of Grace Episcopal church and former dean of the Cathedral of St. Peter and Paul, will succeed the Rev. Edwin J. Randall as rector of St. Barnabas' Episcopal church, 4237 Washington boulevard. Mr. Randall will begin next Sunday his duties as executive secretary of the bishop and council of the Chicago diocese, with headquarters at 180 North Wabash avenue.

Mr. Pond will be instituted rector of St. Barnabas' by the Rt. Rev. S. M. Griswold, suffragan bishop of Chicago, on Sunday, Jan. 8.

The Rev. Mr. Pond was dean of the cathedral from 1915 to 1918. He succeeded the Rt. Rev. Walter T. Sumner, who was elected bishop of Oregon while dean of the cathedral. He was a member of the committee of 100, which had charge of the "Billy" Sunday evangelistic campaign in Chicago in 1918.

DRYS MUSTERING FORCES FOR NEW FIGHT ON BOOZE

Hold Meeting Friday to Plan Campaign.

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

Preparations to meet the last chance the state has in Illinois to win the state legislature and modify the Volstead law by sending favorable representatives to Washington will be made by a meeting of the Illinois Anti-Saloon league next Friday, according to W. Scott McBride, state superintendent of the league. The meeting will be held at the Great Northern hotel and will be presided over by Bishop Thomas Nicholson, president of the National Anti-Saloon league.

Co-Operation Necessary.

"We regard the outlook for prohibition in the state the most encouraging it has been up to date," said Mr. McBride, "but the wetts are making the fight of their lives. It is their last chance. If they don't win this time they are lost. The Association Against Intemperance has a Springfield branch as well as its Chicago headquarters. They intend naming candidates throughout the state. The fight will be a red hot one."

"There can be no complete enforcement of prohibition unless the local and federal authorities work together. The mayor and chief of police have full authority to really make the law effective if they want to and just now they seem to be making good."

"We will organize every county in the state in the interest of law enforcement. In every county there will be a central committee composed of one man and one woman from every voting precinct chosen by a county committee. Out of the central committee will be chosen nine persons who will form an executive committee. We hope to have the state completely organized by the primary election April 11."

Ask Boards for Money.

"The board of supervisors in every county is being appealed to provide the money for investigation and prosecution, as the prohibition law is being enforced. It is the business of the anti-saloon league or any local organization to provide the money or to enforce the law."

"The wine and beer question will be constantly brought up in congress. It will be put on as a rider to agricultural bills and will be given respectability as an argument in boosting the bonus for the soldiers. We will take action on this matter at our Friday meeting. It is safe to say there will be no soldiers' bonus law if it must depend on wine and beer."

Former United States Commissioner of Prohibition John E. Kramer is expected to help the Illinois campaign and we hope also to have the help of Maj. Roy A. Haynes, the present commissioner."

DOCTORS SHY FROM BEER

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—(Special.)—In the statement pronouncing without foundation the report that sacramental wines were to be prohibited, Wayne Wheeler, general counsel of the anti-saloon league, says that the results of the referendum on the use of liquor for medicinal purposes would be the Volstead law to be more liberal than the majority opinion of the doctors.

"The first announcement of the physicians' referendum on medical liquor in the December number of the Journal of the American Medical Association is very encouraging," said Mr. Wheeler. "It shows, of course, that more doctors in the cities favor intoxicating liquor for medicinal purposes than in the country, but the record even in states where large cities are located, as in Indiana and Illinois, is good."

Cites Illinois, Indiana Figures.

"The vote in Illinois was 1,423 against 668 for beer. In Indiana the vote was 765 against beer and 187 for it. On wine, the vote in Illinois was 1,234 against and 104 for. In Indiana, 1,242 against, 211 for. On whiskey in Illinois, 954 against, 1,149 for; in Indiana, 1,127 for, 923 against."

"These figures show clearly that the federal prohibition act is far more liberal than the majority opinion of the doctors on this question. It permits the use of wine and spirituous liquor for medicinal purposes."

Permits Another Indication.

"The comparatively few doctors who took out permits in 1921 to prescribe liquor is even more encouraging. In the 12 states dry previous to national prohibition, only 9 per cent of the doctors had permits, and 91 per cent did not. In the 12 prohibition states where permits were issued, 81 per cent refused to take out permits and 19 per cent held them."

"Fifty-five per cent of the physicians in the states wet previous to national prohibition refused to take out permits. Six per cent more physicians took out permits in 1921 than in 1920, due quite largely to the agitation for medical beer and other liquors."

Christmas Celebration

Results in Shooting

The Christmas celebration at the home of Lucius Chandler, colored, 4608 Federal street, came to an abrupt end yesterday, when Lucius Butler, 4609 Federal street, a neighbor, entered the home and shot Chandler in the side. Butler escaped. Police say the shooting was caused by money which Chandler owed Butler.

Another Year, Another "Follies"

BY SHEPPARD BUTLER.

It is necessary to make a detailed report on the "Follies." They are like the seasons, mutable in their moods but unchanging in their essential character; you know precisely when to expect them and just about what to expect when they arrive. As a player, you either like them or you don't, and nothing you read in the papers is going to change your opinion.

Since the "Follies" are notorious for the belief that Mr. Ziegfeld can do no wrong, he will, of course, pay no attention to me when I venture the heretical opinion that this year's show is not altogether up to the sparkling standard of some of its predecessors. I may be wrong, but it seemed to me that the stately stage pictures came less often than of yore and that the entertainers before the curtain came back so frequently that the fleet, kaleidoscopic variety of former years was replaced sometimes by an effect of repetition.

Still, it is undeniably a gay revel and a gorgeous spectacle, confusing the beholder with its alternating impressions of colder, allurement, and high spirits. I do not know whether you will be more impressed by the shining figure of Miss Francis, O'Donoghue, slim, boylike, and nearly nude, performing the intricacies of a lovely woodland dance, or the eager beauty of Miss Mary Eaton flashing hither and yon on her toes. You will be dazzled, I know, by a gorgeous pageant in the Princess Zennora's garden, and you will wonder at the rich fabrics in a scene centering about the Dauphin of France—something in which Miss Eaton achieves a curiously wistful bit of acting. Mr. Hitchcock is much in evidence with his hoarse drolleries, and he is teamed frequently with the implish Miss Ray Dooley, and a lackadaisical Mr. William C. Fields in this or that rough and tumble travesty—their antics reaching a peak of vociferous nonsense in something about the Flivertons, whom you saw last year in a tin Lizzie and who now are in the New York subway, setting out on a picnic. The fun is not always discreet, but it evokes gales of laughter.

Miss Panny Brice is present, inevitably comic for the most part, but lapsing into a serious mood long enough to sing, in English, the song called "Mon Homme," which Miss Janis does so beautifully in French. You will not like Miss Janis less when you have heard Miss Brice. Van and Schenck are there too, crooning their smooth melodies; Miss Mary Milburn, a gracious songstress with dimples, confers a note of distinction on the proceedings with her pretty air of reticence, and once or twice you see Miss Vera Michelena, all but lost in the tinsel web of a part. In the background, as always, is Miss Ziegfeld's justly famous garden of girls. You know without my saying it that they are the loveliest of their kind.

"The Merry Widow" a Renewed Joy

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Welcome "The Merry Widow," a revival with 1921 costumes and manners, and its own charm, which is independent of date.

There is no difficulty in recommending the present proceedings at the Illinois as a prescription for a pleasant evening. Unless the memory of one member of last night's audience is sadly at fault, this opera by Franz Lehár is better than it used to be. I was one of the devotees of "The Merry Widow" in the time earlier in the century when it used to have long runs in these regions, but I do not remember its having such speedy brightness as it has now.

Of course it has the enormous advantage of possessing a score that runs to a good many carats of gold. There is the justly famous waltz, which, once heard, imbeds itself into the recollection for the rest of a lifetime. But it has other tunes as well, about enough to furnish out some six or eight ordinary musical comedies—tunes that can be remembered, that is. So many of the others furnish good exercise in the art of forgetting.

It also has an idea for a plot, which puts it in good, though scant, company in the fellowship of operettas. Dorothy Francis is the widow in the present revival, an artist who sang a number of important roles with the Chicago Opera association last year.

Now, thought I was an admirer of Miss Francis' voice and talents in grand opera. I was a bit apprehensive before she appeared last night. There is a wide division between the grand manner of opera and the intimate vivacity of operetta, and it has made trouble for more than one seeking translation to the other side.

But Miss Francis settled all doubts within thirty seconds of her appearance. She has crossed the bridge safely. She sparkles. She makes no sweeping, tragic gestures, and there is not an atom of condescension in her demeanor. She is as good as the show, which is saying a good deal. She dances the waltz with an altogether persuasive smoothness and grace, and her singing is a delight in its expert clarity.

With about one-tenth of her voice, but with a fully equal degree of debonair intensity, James Liddy plays Danilo. He is a good deal of a show, when you see him on the stage, which is the best possible reason for his being selected for the part. He has youth, and as an emotional duelist he makes the match with Miss Francis' sonia something to watch with interest.

You will also like, I believe, the excellent jesting of that veteran comedian, Jefferson De Angella, as Nish, and of another resourceful fun maker, Raymond Crane, as Popoff. There are a pair of fine voices in the throats of Marie Wells and Frank Webster. Two dancers, credited all too briefly in the program as D'Andrea and Walters, carry a couple of appearances to a point that would excite applause in one of Pavlova's audiences. There is a good supporting company, a tuneful chorus, and an orchestra better than the average.

"The Merry Widow" is worth your attendance.

Missing High School Lad

Will Arrive Home Today

William De Laby and family, 1501 North Hamilton avenue, will celebrate a belated Christmas today, when William Jr., 15 years old, a student at Lane Technical High school, who ran away from home Friday, will arrive from Kansas City.

Colored Woman Shoots Man

for Failure to Pay Rent

Police arrested Lulu Randall, colored, 3204 Prairie avenue, last night for the shooting of George Cornell, colored, 3517 South La Salle street. She said he had been a roomer and refused to pay his rent bill.

MOONSHINE ENDS YULE PLANS OF FAMILY OF EIGHT

Father Tries to Kill Baby, Wife Charges.

Moonshine drove Joy, a Christmas guest, from the home of John Sillick, 1078 West 14th street, yesterday, brought in Joy's place Horror, and sought to introduce the gaunt specter Murder.

Joy was present when Mrs. Sillick arose early in the morning to put the last touches on a Christmas tree for the children and to fill their stockings with the presents she had saved for weeks to buy. There was something for each one of the six, from John, 7, the oldest, to the 3-month-old baby asleep in the crib near the warm kitchen stove.

Then came Moonshine. The husband, owner of a saloon at 1401 Solon place, came home. He had been drinking all night. The sight of the prettily decorated tree enraged him. Raving and cursing, he tore the ornaments from it and hurled them at his wife.

Children Wake to Fear.

His shouts awakened the children. Shivering from cold and fear, they crept from their beds. They saw their father tear the last of the pretty things from the tree, then knock it to the floor.

A feeble wall sounded from the baby's crib. Infuriated by the sound, the father caught up a large butcher knife and ran toward the crib.

The mother's scream of terror sent the oldest boy, John, running barefooted, clad only in his nightgown, two blocks through the snow to the Maxwell street police station. While some of the policemen there wrapped the boy in blankets and warmed him, Lieut. O'Donnell and others ran to Sillick home.

Find Him Unconscious.

They found Sillick unconscious on the floor beside the baby's crib. The wife was not in the house. A few minutes later she was found unconscious in the alley at the rear of the house. With a heavy blow to the head with a life, she told the police after she had been revived. "Then I went out to search for John. I didn't know he had run for the police. I thought he was afraid and I feared he would come to death. I was so exhausted from struggling with my husband and the cold was so sharp that I fainted."

Promise Heavy Penalty.

Sillick was locked up. "And I'll personally see that he gets the full extent of the law," Lieut. O'Donnell said.

A. J. Thomas, 50 years old, 4119 Kenmore avenue, also may pay dearly for celebrating Christmas with moonshine. He was found unconscious at Michigan avenue and Monroe street by the police. He was taken to the Inglewood Memorial hospital. His condition is serious.

A liquor-crazed colored man pulled a knife in a Cottage Grove avenue car last night and announced he was going to "do some cuttin'." He was taken to the hospital by the police.

William R. Keywood, 31, a gardener at the Edgewater Golf club, was found dead in his home at 1712 Devon avenue, last night. An empty bottle, believed to have contained moonshine, was found by his side.

Timothy J. Smith, 2924 Wilcox street, for many years a captain in the Chicago fire department, died while attending church service at Our Lady of Sorrows church, 3400 Broadway and Albany avenue, yesterday morning. Capt. Smith for years was head of Truck Company No. 2, at Clinton and Washington streets. Recently he headed Engine Company 44, which was located near to his home.

Capt. Smith is survived by his widow, Mrs. Annie Smith, two daughters, Geraldine and Katherine, and three sons, Timothy Jr., Frank, and James. Funeral arrangements will be made today.

SHOOTS HUSBAND IN BACK.

Jealous because of his attentions to other colored women at a party Saturday night, Miss Mollie Thomas, 3809 Federal street, waited until her husband and herself returned home and then shot him through the back. The wife escaped.

WHEN A FELLER NEEDS A FRIEND

HER PHANTOM LOVER

by ELIZABETH YORK MILLER

SYNOPSIS.

Doris Westhaven kills her husband's cousin, Andrew Mandell, when he tries to make love to her. Westhaven, who resembles Mandell, assumes the dead man's name and goes to prison in Nevada as the "Maverick Westhaven." Ten years later, pardoned, he returns to England as "Ronald Barry."

Crystal Woodard, niece of Martin Drake, manager of the Westhaven estate, and Andrew Crouch, a workman for Westhaven, are in love. Drake and Doris forbid the match. Doris learns that Andrew is the legal Lord Westhaven, the son of Mandell, whom she had killed.

INSTALLMENT LXXIX.

Did not even ask questions. It must be that he was quite willing to let Doris pass out of his life.

In June Andrew and Crystal were married, according to their original plan. Then they had gone abroad on a long honeymoon trip.

Simultaneously Mrs. Crouch disappeared from the town and took up her life again in an old Ligurian village as the Contessa Noni.

Letty, now Mrs. Tom Gilly, was the proud possessor of the little shop in the High Street.

It had been a season of weddings, at two of which Ted had been best man, Andrew's, of course, and that of Andrew's mother, by earnest request of old Noni.

Now Andrew and Crystal were coming home, and they had written to ask Ronald and Ted to be on hand.

For weeks it had been on Ronald's mind to question the conditions as a matter of course. At least he did not comment upon them, and his friendship for Andrew was as staunch as it had always been.

Still, the boy must feel it. Ronald's heart ached a little for him as he turned the car into the wide lime-bordered avenue that led to the old house which he had always regarded as his home.

It was then that Ted broke through his reserve of his own accord. He did it with a cheerful grin.

"I expect you're wondering if I'm cut up," he said. "That's the trouble about most people. They don't understand chaps like Andrew and me. Andrew knows that in the old days I've shared every blessed thing I owned with him, and he'd do the same by me. Naturally he can't share his name, but since it never was my name why should I grumble? I've got a good one of my own."

Ronald smiled at him and laid a hand on his shoulder as they entered the house.

"Andrew has certainly been generous," he said.

"Generous?" Ted scoffed. "Let him hear you say that. He'd be furious. I wouldn't dare patronize him myself by suggesting such an idea. You see, old Andrew has sort of adopted me. He thinks I belong to him because he had the luck to save my life."

Still a boy, thought Ronald, relieved that it was so. He had no fears for the future, since his own life was behind him, and he knew by grim experience how little anything matters except freedom of soul and body. Ted, please God, would always be free, barring the accident of an unhappy marriage, but that was something from which luck and the good will of the gods might save him. Surely there was something charmed about him, and the sweetness he cast abroad so lavishly must bring his own reward.

SANTA FAILS TO VISIT POOR RICH BOY; FATHER SUES

Heir to Wolff Estate Says Brothers Deny Him.

There was one young chap in Chicago Santa Claus missed yesterday in dividing his burden of Christmas cheer. Fourteen year old Harry Wolff Jr., who lives at 5471 University avenue, had his heart set on a pair of ice skates. Skating is good in the Midway neighborhood. But the skates didn't come.

Harry Wolff, the boy's father, felt the absence of the gift as keenly as Harry Jr. He couldn't buy them. Yet there is a $300,000 trust fund belonging to them, with a $15,000 annual income, they say. They are fighting to recover it.

Wolff, 35 years old, is the youngest son of the late Ludwig Wolff, millionaire head of the Wolff Manufacturing company. A petition filed recently seeks to recover the fund left to the trust of Wolff's half brothers, Louis, Christian, and Frederick, and the estate of another half brother, John, who died. Judge Hugo Friend set the hearing for Feb. 14.

Charges They Cheated Him.

The petition charges that if the brothers, the youngest of whom is eleven years older than Harry, had not dissipated the estate and used it to enrich themselves, an income of $15,000 would now be available. Through fraud and deceit, the petition alleges, the estate is now at a point where no income has been paid for several years and cannot now be paid.

The father spent Christmas in his room wearing slippers and reminiscing with another roomer. The boy was at the movies. The mother, he said, was in New York.

"The kid's the greatest soldier in the world," he said affectionately. "We're sticking together to fight this thing through. He goes to public school now because I can't afford to keep him at Morgan Park any more. I don't want him to grow up a snob, but he's as good as anybody else, and he's going to get a square deal."

"A Poor Relation."

The other brothers, Wolff declared, always regarded him in the light of a "poor relation—a fourth cousin." They live in luxury in homes or hotels, he went on, while he and the boy were broke, and no employment for him in sight.

"They seemed tickled to death when I went down to the border in 1916 and joined the cavalry," he said. "Then I came back and went across with the tank corps. When I got back in May, 1919, my checks from the estate ceased. I haven't had a penny from it since. But this is the last Christmas of the kind the boy and I intend to spend. There will be plenty of skates on Christmas next year."

Confiscated Wine Blows

Up; Police Wield Sponges

The bung blew out of a barrel of wine placed in the West Chicago avenue station last night after being seized in a garage, bringing the police from the squad room with revolvers drawn. They substituted sponges, they said, and the station was soon dried.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five

Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

How do you think the Christmas spirit is this year compared with that of former years?

Where Asked.

Randolph and Michigan.

The Answers.

Harry Niemeyer, 5223 Indiana avenue, bookkeeper—Yes, I think the spirit is in the air. It is much better. This is readily noticed in both business and social relations. With the Washington conference really doing something to promote peace and good will, we all seem to have taken the cue.

Miss Florence Miller, 436 East 44th street, a typist—The Christmas spirit? Well, so far as it has affected me, it has been wonderful. In other recent years I have been away from home, and it is great to be here today. I have noticed that such has been done for the needy this year, which speaks for itself.

Guy Gipton, 154 East Ontario street, student—The spirit has been better this year. And it should be still better next year. The horrors of the war are being dulled by time. The work of the disarmament conference has done much to make all people realize there is no need for all the strife we have had.

Vanda Marks, 215 East Erie street, telephone operator—Chicago has been a delightful city this week. Why can't it last? Maybe it can, if we'll only try to keep the spirit alive. There has been much done for the needy in the past few days, and I am glad to have learned that the boys who fought for us in France were not forgotten—that is, those in hospitals at least.

Cecil Jensen, 25 East Superior street, art student—Last year I was away from home. In a city I shall not mention. The spirit I have felt here this season is incomparably better. Men and women have smiles and cheerfulness this week. And they have done much more—they have given to the poor and attended the sick.

KERNEL COOTIE—HANK IS A THANKLESS PERSON

U. S. BANKERS SEE BUSINESS BOOM IN COMING YEAR

Heavy Christmas Buying
Is One Indication.

New York, Dec. 25.—Leading bankers of the country in exclusive statements to the United Press tonight predicted a prosperous 1922.

First signs that a new prosperity is at hand were shown in increased Christmas buying, which was reported from every section of the country. This buying encourages the belief that the people have confidence in better business, more production and consequently cheaper living.

The bankers in their statements forecast gradual improvements in basic industries, such as steel, rubber, textiles, shoes and mining.

An accumulation of raw materials, the National Bank of Commerce says, "assures to the world a supply of cheap food and clothing, and real prosperity has never rested on any other basis."

Warn Against Overoptimism.

At the same time, the bankers warned against overoptimism.

The limitations of arms conference they see as a stimulus to prosperity. However, they are almost unanimous in the belief that there must be a new adjustment of taxes and measures to assist an increase in foreign trade.

"The disarmament conference at Washington promises to divert billions of dollars from destructive activity to constructive industries, and the outlook for business and finance in the United States in 1922 is encouraging," says Thomas B. McAdams, president of the American Bankers' association and vice president of the Merchants National bank, Richmond, Va.

"One extremely good sign," he continues, "is the growth of the spirit of economy throughout the country. Business is better and, while recessions are expected at irregular intervals, 1922 should show some improvement over the corresponding period this year. This, however, will be dependent in a large part upon a solution of our foreign trade problems and as the more threatening points in the international situation have been adjusted."

Business Is Improving.

That business is "gradually improving" is the opinion of J. Arthur House, president of the trust company division of the American Bankers' association and president of the Guardian Trust and Savings bank of Cleveland, O.

"The unsettled conditions of finance and political situation in Europe and foreign exchange existing not only in Europe but in all countries with which the United States transacts business must be remedied," House reporting on business in the great Ohio steel, coal, and rubber plants, also says: "There is widespread feeling among bankers, manufacturers, and dealers that the bottom was reached some months ago and that therefore we may now expect a gradual resumption in all important lines of industry and finance."

Textile Industry Recovers.

John H. Puelicher, first vice president of the American Bankers' association and president of the Marshall & Isely bank, Milwaukee, speaking for his district, says:

"Textile manufacturers, especially hosiery, made an early and rapid recovery from depression. The trend in shoe manufacturing has been upward. Automobile parts and accessories have had a better year than was expected."

"Conditions in the United States today indicate the year 1922 as a whole will be more satisfactory to business than the year just ended," is the opinion expressed by the National Bank of Commerce, New York. "Business men should not fear to make plans for the new year, but they should plan with care and conservatism, and with constant effort towards the reduction of costs."

THE CHILDREN AND GEORGE WASHINGTON

More Entries in the Race for $11,650 in The Tribune's Prizes for School Children and Teachers.

Here are more of the essays by boys and girls entered in the George Washington prize contest being conducted by The Tribune. The contest closes on Washington's birthday, Feb. 22.

Rose to the Occasion.

In every American home should be a picture of George Washington, the father of our country.

Why has this great man been called the father of this great republic?

Because he rose to the occasion, when the traditional and popular liberties of his countrymen were at stake, to lead them to victory over tyranny and oppression and to insure for them and their posterity liberty, life, and the pursuit of happiness.

He gladly gave himself to the service of his countrymen, and, using the intelligence and ability that God had given him, he devoted his time, energy, and ability to the noble duties of loyalty and patriotism.

For many weary months the tide of success turned against him, and he met with one disaster after another. But in gloom and disappointment he showed himself a firm, steadfast, and determined patriot.

What would have been discouragement to the average leader was only another spark in the fire of his patriotism, another force that spurred him onward to victory and success.

And then, after victory was won, Washington stood foremost in the hearts of those people for whose liberty he strove and also as the father of the newly born republic.

He was a noble and true patriot, a brave and courageous hero, and a true, trustworthy, and honorable citizen.

We should try to keep alive in our hearts that same spirit of patriotism and loyalty which he carried through life if we wish to be real, worthy, and upright citizens of America—God's country.

LESLIE FLENN, Rewith street, Neenah, Wis. Age 16. Neenah High school. Teacher, Miss Carley.

The Best Legacy. The greatest legacy a person can bequeath to his children, to the future generation, and to his country, is a reputation for real service. Such a life radiates inspiration like the beams from the sun of summer skies, and permeates the minds of thousands of individuals to such a degree that in a sense it glorifies their lives and holds them steadfast to those ideals exemplified by the unselfish career of a fine character in the service of mankind.

Were it not for such individuals civilization would decay and crumble, and human progress be halted in its march toward better things.

To be a prince of men is to be of great service to mankind. Such a man was our George Washington, first President of the greatest republic known to mankind. His life has been and is a continued source of inspiration to every true American. His loyalty, wisdom, kindness, and the strength of mind and body to rise to great heights when occasion demanded, made him an example that has undoubtedly spurred the citizenship of our country to deeds of heroism and sacrifice never before attained by the citizens of any country.

Such a legacy as George Washington left behind is a wealth that increases in value, generation after generation. He fully deserves the title, "Father of His Country."

DOROTHY EDDY, 530 N. South street, South Bend, Ind. Age 13 years. Junior High school. Teacher, Elizabeth Hamilton.

We Owe Him Much. George Washington, "father of his country," is an American we should be proud of. He was a square dealing and an ideal superman. He loved his country and fought for it when needed. If it wasn't for Washington and a few other generals we would now be under British rule. Washington did a great deal for his country and it is no wonder the people wanted him to be President for the third term. He was loved by his people and is a man that should not be forgotten.

HOMER HILTON JR., 477 Park avenue, Kenosha, Wis. Age 11. 6A grade, Charles Burke school. Teacher, Mrs. Sommer.

OUR PRE-INVENTORY SALE

WILL BE IN EFFECT DURING THIS WEEK ONLY

If you could realize as we do the importance of clearing our stock of odd pieces and discontinued patterns you would then be better able to understand why we have reduced the price of some home-needs 33 1/3% to 50%.

Because of conditions over which we have no control, our stock includes many incomplete living room, bed-room and dining room suites.

These pieces must be sold now!

If you need a bed and dresser to match—a dining room table, a set of chairs and perhaps the buffet or serving table—or an odd chair—davenport or davenport table—you will not be able to purchase a better bargain than those we offer.

Odd pieces and discontinued patterns must be sold regardless of their former prices.

Isn't it then decidedly to your best interest to inspect our displays? We are quite sure you will be able to fill your wants—and at a substantial saving.

CONVENT CLINGS TO STORMY LIFE IN RED RUSSIA

BY HELEN AUGUR.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

MOSCOW, Dec. 24.—Convent life still exists in Russia, but in a changed form.

A convent that illustrates the changes wrought by the revolution is to be found within Moscow. On entering the inclosure first glance fell on the usual chapel and the little yellow house built around it. The chapel is a simple wooden building, but the interior is rather gaudy splendor of gold and silver icons, but the number of nuns burning was kept down to a minimum.

The sister superior was not to be found in any of the main houses along the shaded walk. She was finally discovered in a humble room at the rear, and explained that she had to move from time to time to make room for some of the professors whom the government was quartering in the cloister.

In her spotless little room crowded with icons and pious, the sister superior told of the life of her convent since the revolution. Her black robe was rusty with age, and she looked tired and unhappy.

Tells Her Story.
"All the sisters are still here," she said. "In fact, most of the convents over the country have kept open in order to provide a refuge for the women who otherwise would be homeless. But our lives have been completely changed since the revolution. While we attempt was made to destroy convent life, the revolution at one blow cut off our two main sources of income—the church and the department stores. We had received large support from the church, and it was through the department stores that we marketed our handwork."

"At the present time the collections taken for us at church services are enough to buy us one meal a week. We have no materials to make lingerie, and no way of marketing our work. So we should be quite destitute if it were not that all the nuns go and work in the country for the summer. There are always plenty of peasants who will allow the sisters to come and work in the fields and gardens. So in the fall they come back with enough food and potatoes and cabbage to feed the convent for the winter. Of course, it isn't enough, but it enables us to live."

Fear of Government.
The sister superior said that the nuns were not able to do any work among the people now, because they had to shift for themselves. Her main concern seemed to be the fear that the government would begin charging the nuns rent for their little rooms, in which three and four were crowded together.

PIN MEN COLLECT CASH PRIZES FOR CITY TITLE GAMES

Secretary Jake Mueller of the Chicago Bowling association spent a busy Christmas at Leo Schueneman's Logan Square alleys handing out the checks for the prizes which were won at the annual city championship tournament, which finished last Thursday.

The whole Vol team was represented when first prize in the main event was called out by the genial Jake. They lost no time in cashing the voucher for $140, and it was immediately divided.

The new two man champions, Frank "Tomatoes" Kafora and Roy Davis, pulled down a little Christmas gift of $120, with little with their title. Kafora paid Davis his bit and expects to frame the check.

Baumgarten Cashes In. Elmer Baumgarten dug into the prize money deeper than any of the others. Besides getting his $85 for first place in the singles he was up on the prize lists in the other different events.

The veteran Tony McGlone went home proud with his forty bucks for being high man in the all events. He totaled 1,923 for his nine games in the tournament. The mark is the highest that has been reached in more than ten years of city championship tournaments.

WOODS AND WATERS BOB BECKER

ILLINOIS FISHES PRODUCE MUCH REVENUE.

THE SCRAPPY black bass and the fighting "pick" furnish all kinds of sport for anglers in this state, but there are also many edible fishes in Illinois that every year yield a neat piece of money to the commercial fishermen. In fact, few of us realize just how much revenue is derived from the stinky tribes inhabiting the lakes and streams of Illinois.

We have more than 150 species of fishes in Illinois, about 36 of which are marketable and have a pretty definite value as food. There are many more, of course, which are good to eat, but are either not popular or abundant enough to be of much commercial value.

According to statistics of the last census the European carp brought in the most coin to the "money" fishermen as $24,322 worth of carp was taken from our rivers and sold in the markets. Many anglers would just as soon see that figure $24,322,000, as not many fishing fans have much love for the carp. Buffalo came next with $11,707 worth sold. Catfishes and bullheads yielded $68,535 and so on down to the wall-eyed pike, which brought in only $1,174.

If you were to list the first nine Illinois fishes, first in their abundance in the markets and in quality and popularity, the lineup would go something like this: Whitefish, lake trout, blue cat, channel cat, mud cat, common pike, white crappie, black crappie and blue-gill. If it were a popularity contest from the standpoint of the bait or fly caster the small mouth and big mouth bass would be right at the top of the column, but these two fish in the commercial fishing game do not cut much of a figure compared to the carp, buffalo and catfish.

ILLINOIS FISHES PRODUCE MUCH REVENUE.

THE SCRAPPY black bass and the fighting "pick" furnish all kinds of sport for anglers in this state, but there are also many edible fishes in Illinois that every year yield a neat piece of money to the commercial fishermen. In fact, few of us realize just how much revenue is derived from the stinky tribes inhabiting the lakes and streams of Illinois.

We have more than 150 species of fishes in Illinois, about 36 of which are marketable and have a pretty definite value as food. There are many more, of course, which are good to eat, but are either not popular or abundant enough to be of much commercial value.

According to statistics of the last census the European carp brought in the most coin to the "money" fishermen as $24,322 worth of carp was taken from our rivers and sold in the markets. Many anglers would just as soon see that figure $24,322,000, as not many fishing fans have much love for the carp. Buffalo came next with $11,707 worth sold. Catfishes and bullheads yielded $68,535 and so on down to the wall-eyed pike, which brought in only $1,174.

FULTON ON WAY EAST SEEKING TITLE BOUT

Fred Fulton, heavyweight fighter of Rochester, Minn., is expected in Chicago today on his way to New York, where he will meet Promoter Tex Rickard to talk over prospects of a match with Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion. Although the champion knocked out Fulton in twenty-three seconds of the first round at Harrison, N. J., back in 1918, Promoter Rickard undoubtedly believes the Gopher battler has a chance to go along with the titleholder.

Despite the holidays, Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, and Howard Smith of the stockyards, who will trade punches in one of the double windup bouts of Jimmy Keyes' boxing show at La Salle on Thursday night, will not let up in their training. Taylor worked at the Arcade yesterday while Smith went through his paces at a south side gymnasium. Joe Mandell of Rockford and Young Dixon will clash in the other half of the main event.

Leonard Here Wednesday.

Benny Leonard, lightweight champion who will meet Pinkie Mitchell in the main event of the Cream City A. C. boxing show at Milwaukee one week from this afternoon, is expected in Chicago on Wednesday. The champion may stop off a day to train at the Arcade, but he must be on the battle ground by Friday to conform to the Wisconsin state boxing rules.

Leonard's title will not be at stake in this contest because the fighters are meeting at catchweights. The champion is expected to scale around 140 pounds, while Mitchell will be close to the figure. Tickets are on sale at Al Bloom's 129 North Dearborn street. The contest will be held in the afternoon.

Ever Hammer to Box Noye.

Ever Hammer, local lightweight, will trade punches with Johnny Noye of St. Paul at Peoria on Thursday night. Tom Jones is matchmaker for the promoting club.

Phil Collins, matchmaker for the Naval post of the American Legion, which will stage its next show aboard the U. S. S. Commodore on Jan. 13, is looking for a suitable opponent for Young Farrell. The matchmaker has decided to use Farrell with some good bantamweight who can give the coast boxer a fight.

HOCKEY LEAGUE STARTS PRACTICE

The Rogers Park Skating club and Edgewater Beach hockey teams of the Chicago Hockey association will hold their initial practice at the ice rink of the Edgewater Beach hotel this afternoon at 1 o'clock sharp. The first league game will be played on Saturday afternoon. All members and any players not already affiliated with other league teams are requested to report promptly on time to Manager Lamb.

ROETS WINNER IN TRAP SHOOT

Fred E. Roets, secretary of the club, won first place in the "grab bag" shoot at the Lincoln Park traps yesterday. The event was fifty targets, 16 yards, and Roets broke forty-seven. His victory gave him first chance to pick out his prize from the grab bag, a sack which contained a prize for each member who competed. C. G. Burmeister and B. P. Rivadeniera tied for second honors with scores of 45. The same program will be held today, starting at 1:30 o'clock. Forty-three shooters competed yesterday. Leading scores: F. E. Roets, 47; C. G. COAST ELEVEN HOLD EDGE OVER EASTERN TEAMS

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

With Washington and Jefferson, one of the undefeated eleven of the east, on its way to the coast to give battle to California, champion of the Pacific coast, in the important inter-sectional struggle at Pasadena next Monday afternoon, the eastern eleven must win to even up the series of games played between teams of the two sections.

Since 1917, when the first game was played, coast eleven have won three, while those from the east have been successful in only two. In 1917 Washington State, coached by William ("Lone Star") Deltz, present major at Purdue university, defeated Brown. The fleet Fritz Pollard, one of the greatest players who ever wore the colors of the Providence Institution, was a member of the team which went down in defeat. This game was played on a field ankle deep in mud in spots.

Harvard Eleven Wins.
In 1918 Pennsylvania was beaten by Oregon, but in the following year—war period—the powerful Great Lakes eleven, which had swept everything before it, took the jaunt to the coast and won from the Mare Island marines, the best service eleven on the coast. The marines were coached that year by Deltz.

Harvard, with the redoubtable Eddie Casey as its mainstay, took the field on the first day of 1920 and won from Oregon, 7 to 6, after a great struggle. It was an interesting battle and on several occasions the western eleven had the ball dangerously close to the Crimson goal line, but lacked the final pinch to put the oval across the line for the points which meant a victory.

Ohio State Beaten.
Early last winter Ohio State undertook to duplicate Harvard's triumph, but fell easy prey to the magnificent team developed by Andy Smith, former Pennsylvania player and coach who developed the California eleven known in football circles as the Bears. The Buckeyes after winning the west-conference title lost to the Golden state eleven, 28 to 0.

In this game, which was seen by the writer, California did everything that a good football team should do. It tackled, got out in the interference, was always in the vicinity of the ball, and above all executed plays with a clocklike precision which could not be denied. There was a businesslike movement to the players who seemed to know perfectly every move they were to make.

W. and J. Strong Team.
Coach Andy Smith had a good line on Ohio's style of attack and he undoubtedly knows the style of offense to be employed by W. and J., as he made a tour of the east following the close of the regular season. The former Penn player believes that a strong offense is the best type of defense and will undoubtedly try to outscore the eastern eleven on Monday.

On the other hand, Washington and Jefferson is composed of seasoned players, warriors who should stand adverse conditions of not only the trip but the game as well. The team has generally played better football on foreign fields than at home, while Coach "Greasy" Neale is the type of mentor who will not permit his men to get worried or fretful.

At any rate middle west and far eastern football will "pull" for a W. and J. victory so that the series of games played between teams of the sections will be evened up.

PULLMAN DEFEATS SIMMONS AT SOCCER

BY JOE DAVIS.

With four minutes of the regular period remaining for play and the Simmons team of Kenosha leading two goals to one, Pullman was awarded a penalty kick, and a goal by Stevenson but the caribullers on even terms.

In the extra periods of 15 minutes each, Jackson netted the ball for Pullman, giving them a win three goals to two in the fourth round of the National Soccer championship and the right to meet the Scullins team at St. Louis next Sunday. The Scullins won the final in the St. Louis district, defeating the Ben Millers, 3 to 0.

Play on Slippery Field.
While the snow at Bricklayers' field yesterday was not heavy, the surface underneath was slippery, and with uncertain footing both teams missed some fine chances to score, Pullman being the greatest offender.

Pullman pressed most of the first half. Pollitt counted the first goal after ten minutes of play. Near the end of the half Patterson counted for Kenosha.

Pullman did the most pressing in the second half but Kenosha made a number of attacks and finally when Dixon and Neate got mixed on a play, Ritchie scored ten minutes after the restart.

Pullman Tie Score.
Then Pullman got its penalty and tied the score, and scored their winning goal after five minutes of play in the first extra period. Lineup:

PULLMAN (3). G. Vaca, R. B. Dixon, W. Patterson, R. B. L. B. Westwater Walker, R. H. C. H. Osborn, J. Pollitt, J. Home, O. R. C. B. Black, P. Patterson, J. R. C. B. Stevens, R. H. C. B. O. L. B. Jackson, J. Petrat, J. L. O. L. B. Osborn, J. Kolar, J. W. L. Goal from penalty—Stevens. Referee—Johnson.

SPORTS through Edgren's EYES

BY ROBERT EDGREN.

FOOTBALL teams today with their highly developed scoring power could trim the giant, bruising eleven of twenty years ago.

Some of the old timers won't admit this, but Big Bill Edwards isn't one of them. The former Princeton captain, who year after year never misses a game the Tigers play, confesses that present day teams could outscore the old giant combinations that Yale, Harvard, and Princeton turned out.

Edwards made this assertion when recalling the good old days when real games played over the gridiron. "Football has greatly improved," he said. "It is a much better game for spectators as modern attendance records show. For the players, the game has become more scientific. Brains count more than muscle power. There are many more ways to score. An average team now will have from thirty-five to fifty plays. When I was at Princeton our eleven didn't have over twenty."

"At that time it was mostly a case of brawn and stamina. We linedmen really only saw the ball when it was kicked. The forwards only had to guard their own territory and look out for their lives. Now a guard or tackle must roam all over the field making plays."

Edwards said he tipped close to 270 when at Princeton. This is sufficient reason why the old boys were not so speedy. A guard or tackle in those days of "mastadons" was developed for steam roller service and not for sprinting ability.

Big Bill, while admitting the superiority of modern football, insists that if the old five yard rushing game was played the teams of twenty years ago would successfully batter their way.

Notice that Harry Vardon, dean of English professional golfers, plans a comeback that will carry him to the United States next season.

No Ostracism.
There's really no age limit in golf. Vardon, now 52, should be vastly superior to the youth of 22, because golf requires more mental than physical effort. In this respect golf is similar to billiards. In both games the real action is above the eyes brows. Tennis, baseball, boxing, every other sport, demands heavy physical toll and champions don't often last past thirty years.

But at thirty a golfer really only begins to get good. English record books are full of golfers winning both amateur and professional honors when in their forties.

In this country there's the case of Walter J. Travis, the only American who ever won the English amateur classic. Travis never held a brassie in his hands until he was nearly 32 years old.

As for Vardon there's no reason why he shouldn't be "good" for years to come. Unlike the great army of golfers, his style is so easy and perfect that he only needs to use minimum physical power. He saves himself where the less fortunate player tires himself with unnecessary strain.

Can't Rest Forever.
The populace will soon get the impression that Benny Leonard's too proud to fight unless Billy Gibson adjusts his troubles with promoters and wins the lightweight champion for a bout.
